EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1901.

TWO CENTS.

A SMALL VOTE IS BEING CAST

Election Day in This City Is So Far One of the Quietest For Years.

FEATURES OF INTEREST

Are the Fight for Sheriff And the Contest for Legislative Honors—Vote Up to a Late Hour This Afternoon Was Very Light.

Considering the amount of interest which has been centered in at least two contests for county offices, East Liverpool today passed one of the quietest election days in many years. So far as East Liverpool is concerned everything in the way of state and national issues was lost sight of in the attempt to defeat Sheriff S. D. Noragon for re-election.

At the time C. P. Leonard was nominated to represent the Democrats as their candidate for sheriff, no one in Columbiana county took the matter seriously, the fact attracting no more attention than is usually excited by the average Democratic county convention. Shortly afterward the steel strike was inaugurated in Wellsville and politics was lost sight of by the working people in their endeavor to bring the big steel corporation to terms.

During the progress of the strike Sheriff Noragon was summoned to Wellsville by the mayor of that city, A. P. Dennis, a Democrat. The sheriff's actions while in Wellsville were alleged by the unionists of this district to have been entirely too favorable to the interests of the trust.

From that time to the present there was opposition to Noragon. Then it was that Leonard's candidacy was taken up by the unionists, more as a means for defeating Noragon than for any other reason. Many members of union organizations have been very active all through the campaign.

Another battle over which considerable interest has been manifested is that for representative. J. C. Walsh, the Democratic nominee, has been making an aggressive canvass, but good judges of the political situation say the odds against him are too great.

Every indication pointed to a very small vote being polled at each precinct, and as the balloting proceeded the shortage was even more pronounced than had been anticipated.

At 3 o'clock the following vote had been cast at the several precincts:

First ward, first precinct, 172.
First ward, second precinct, 143.
Second ward, first precinct, 150.
Second ward, second precinct, 199.
Third ward, first precinct, 160.
Second precinct, 179.
Fourth ward, first precinct, 172.
Second precinct, 145.
Fifth ward, 186.

A LIGHT VOTE

Throughout the County, According to Reports Reaching Lisbon.

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—The election is passing off quietly at Lisbon. Reports from different parts of the county indicate a light vote.

It is said many farmers are not going to the polls. Judged by other elections, the vote at 10 a. m. is far below the average.

MANY WORKERS OUT

BUT THE ELECTION AT WELLSVILLE IS NOT EXCITING.

A Review of the Situation And Indications Up to Noon.

Scenes around the polling stations of the several wards of Wellsville today did not indicate any unusual interest. From the opening of the polls until noon there were very few votes cast. Quite a number of workers were out for all candidates and nearly every man who voted was given the chance of hearing persuasive arguments.

Around the Fifth ward polls there was no excitement whatever. The general belief was that Leonard would carry the ward, that the water works bonds would be defeated and that Walsh would run even.

At the Fourth ward there was more enthusiasm displayed. Betting was a little scarce. A few bets were made by prominent politicians in the ratio of 3 to 1 for Noragon carrying Wellsville and even money that he would carry the county.

Emmet McKenzie, chairman of the Republican central committee, stated that 75 per cent of the railroad men would cast their votes for Noragon; the water works bonds, it was thought, stood little chance.

The result in the remaining wards could not well be predicted.

At 1 o'clock there had been cast 112 votes in the First ward, 115 in the Second, 150 in the Third, 151 in the Fourth and 175 in the Fifth.

GAS FOR LISBON

NEW COMPANY PROPOSES TO SUPPLY THE TOWN.

Will Proceed to Pipe the Product From the Fink Farm Wells.

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—E. E. Hanna, of Salem, and James A. Diamond, of Pittsburgh, were in Lisbon last evening. They appeared before the town council, which was in session, to ask for a franchise for laying gas mains here for the Columbiana Gas company. The council agreed to grant the franchise, and will meet next Monday night for that purpose.

The Columbiana Gas company was recently formed to succeed the Salem Oil and Gas company which owns strong gas wells on the Fink farm, near here. The new company, it is said on good authority, has an abundance of cash to carry out its plans, and proposes to do so at once.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

Judgment Ordered Against B. P. Fink & Co. for $42.75 And $13.17 Costs.

The case which was brought in Justice Rose's court a few weeks ago by Attorney W. B. Hill, representing Jacob Epstein, proprietor of a Baltimore wholesale house, against B. P. Fink & Co., of this city, was tried yesterday and decided in the plaintiff's favor.

Epstein sought to recover $42.75, which he claimed as a balance on goods sold to defendants. Justice Rose, after hearing the evidence submitted, rendered a judgment for the plaintiff for the full amount of his claim, together with the costs, amounting to $13.17.

SLEPT IN OPERA HOUSE

Drunken Man Amused And Disgusted Those Who Witnessed His Actions.

A roughly dressed individual, who had evidently found considerable amusement at the bar rooms before going to the show, was an occupant of one of the boxes last night at the opera house. With his hair hanging down over his eyes and with a face covered with unkempt whiskers, he was the star attraction during the hours the anxious spectators sat in wait for the belated performers.

Unmindful of the notice that was being paid to him, the drunken man lay across a chair to enjoy a siesta. While so doing, and at a time when he was snoring in a bass fiddle strain, a mischievous boy threw a wad of paper which struck the sleeper squarely in the mouth. In an instant he raised up in his chair and with a look of bewilderment felt about him to see if he was still hanging together. The spectators enjoyed a hearty laugh, though many of them were disgusted also.

AUTHORIZED TO SETTLE

Claim for Husband's Death Will Be Adjusted for $300.

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—Catherine Garthwaite, administratrix of the estate of the late Harry Garthwaite, of Leetonia, has been authorized to settle for $300 the claim against the Salem Iron company for causing the death of her husband.

APPEALED TO COMMON PLEAS

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—The case of J. Frank Adams against Bannion Loudon, of Wayne township, has been appealed to common pleas court by the defendant. Mr. Adams was given a judgment in 'Squire Dickenson's court for $25 damages and costs.

The News Review bulletins tonight will give early and authentic election news, both local and general. Watch for them.

CHEAP FUEL GAS MADE FROM COAL

Can Be Produced and Sold at a Profit at Ten Cents a Foot.

EXPERIMENT IN THIS CITY

Said to Have Helped Solve the Fuel Problem—New Pottery at Barber-ton—Vain Hunt for a Desperado. Capital Notes.

Columbus, Nov. 5.—(Special)—"The question of whether people can get natural gas or not will not much longer worry the people of this or any other city," said Former State Mine Inspector R. M. Haseltine. "A process has been invented and given thorough test by which fuel gas can be made and sold with profit for 10 cents a thousand feet. This is, of course, unrefined gas, but I see no reason why it cannot be used for illuminating with the incandescent mantle process as well as any other gas. Its bare flame is, however, not of high illuminating power. The same is true of natural gas, however, and yet people use it with the incandescent mantle for lighting with much success.

"Capitalists of vast resources from Pittsburgh, Chicago and Iowa are interested in it and I have been associated with them as an employee looking up coals for some time. There is nothing chimerical about it. They are men who make thorough investigation of a subject they take up before exploiting it before the public. The fact that they are now buying up coal beds indicates that they now feel sure that they have a good thing and are about to work it.

"The best gas coal will produce not more than 10,000 cubic feet of gas to the ton and it takes the best Pittsburgh gas coal to do that, but with the new process which these men have perfected, it will be possible to make 50,000 to 55,000 cubic feet of gas from a single ton of coal, and they need not be so particular about the kind of coal they use at that. The key to the process is the addition of oxygen to the coal as it is used in the retort, so that the whole of the coal is used up. You know that in the ordinary manufacture of gas there are a great many by-products, coke being the most prominent. Then there is pitch, tar, etc., only the volatile gases being driven out over into the gas tanks. Now in the new process everything but the ash in the coal is converted into gas.

"Where do they get the oxygen? Well, there is the secret. It is taken from the air. Air is cheap and plenty of it is to be had everywhere. Can't corner that, nor exhaust it. And most of it is oxygen. But is it mixed with nitrogen. To separate them cheaply is the problem. My friends do it by passing a stream of air over a bed of manganese.

"Upon the cheapness of the process the value of the whole process for making gas depends. I have laid the matter before Prof. N. W. Lord, of the state university, and he has pronounced the plan an excellent one in theory at least. The company knows what it is doing for it had a small plant in operation at East Liverpool for nearly two years. There the experiments have been tried. The company is now erecting a plant at Youngstown which will be quite a good way past the experimental stage."

Rev. C. W. Huffer, pastor of the Central Christian church at Toledo, is conducting a series of revival meetings at the Franklin avenue church of Christ in this city. For a number of years Rev. Mr. Huffer was pastor of the East Liverpool Christian church, and he resigned that charge to go to Toledo. He has preached in all the prominent churches of his denomination in Columbiana county.

The desperado, A. C. Taylor, alias Lowrey, the notorious bank robber, who was rescued by two of his pals from Guard Bowman, of Canton, Saturday afternoon in this city, while being brought back to the penitentiary from the former place, is still at large. The horse and buggy which the desperadoes stole while escaping was found at St. Louisville, a station on the B. & O., eight miles north of Newark. The animal was almost dead when discovered and evidently had been driven mercilessly. The theory has been advanced that John Johnson and James Allen, supposed to be no-

BURYING WIRES IS A BIG JOB

MARVEL TO THE NOVICE

The Interesting Work Now Being Done By the Bell Company—A Great Trunk System of Copper Wire Under the City's Streets.

The Bell Telephone company is doing important work in placing its wires underground in the business district of the city. Its gang of men, under the direction of William Pidgeon, has almost completed the main trunk of the conduit system on Market street.

At a depth of 3 feet 8 inches is placed a series of clay tiling, called by the telephone people "ducts." There are 20 of these ducts in the trunk line and immediately in front of the exchange 22 of them which are concreted together. The tiling is square with a 3-inch hole in the center that is perfectly round. Twenty cables, 2 1/4 inches in thickness, will be run through these ducts.

Each cable contains 200 pairs of wires, so that it is readily apparent that the telephone company will have something like 8,000 copper wires in the trunk conduit of its underground system of East Liverpool.

The main conduit extends on Market from a short distance below Third street to the Diamond. There the line divides and 12 cables will be run out East and West Market. The West Market conduit will reach to the alley below Sixth street. The other branch will extend on East Market to Walnut.

Along Midway alley, where the trunk divides, a four-duct conduit will be laid to Broadway.

In the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets, a 16-duct conduit will be extended from the trunk, on Market, to Broadway.

This is a description of what the Bell people are doing as taken from a profile of their improvements which were kindly shown to the News Review.

It is a marvel to the novice how the cables can be placed in these ducts after the masonry has been completed and the ditch filled in. The ducts are all made smooth with a swabbing-out process, by means of a mandrill. A series of rods, called "coons," are shoved into the conduit ducts and these permit a wire to be drawn through, then a two-inch rope, and to the end of the rope is attached the heavy copper cable. The cable is drawn through the duct by means of a windlass.

The whole business is a very interesting process.

When the Bell begins the use of the underground wires a change will be made in the switchboards at the exchange. The drop system will be done away with. It will not be necessary to ring the bell, but a call will be answered when the receiver is taken from the 'phone. Instead of a drop on the switchboard there will be only an electric flash light on the number, which the operator in the exchange will attend to.

By the underground system a pair of copper wires is in use for each telephone. This will make a more

CAME AS A SURPRISE

Gift of an Organ to the A. M. E. Church Sunday School.

The members of the A. M. E. Sunday school are the happy recipients of an organ presented to them by the Young Ladies' Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church. It came as a surprise. The A. M. E. Sunday school officers had sent out some little girls with little books gathering pennies and dimes to get themselves an organ.

When these young ladies heard of this they seized this opportunity to do good, and did it. The whole church returns thanks.

DOING ITS WORK OVER

Assessing Board Meets to Act Upon Calcutta Road Improvements.

The assessing board recently appointed by council to make the assessments on Calcutta road met at 3 o'clock this afternoon at city hall for the purpose of going over the work once more.

The board is composed of J. M. Kelly, William Kent and John Vodrey. The members of the board completed their work some time ago, but when a report was submitted to council it was found there was an irregularity in the method employed in converting the city's share of $6,000 to the fund. For this reason it was necessary to again go over the work in order that it might be legal.

At the time the first rating was made the assessing board canvassed the entire section, but on this occasion it will merely go over the former figures and plots and make a revised report to council.

CONFESSED GUILT

JAMES SALING'S CASE DISPOSED OF BY JUSTICE McLANE.

Lambert Myers Fined for Violating School Law—Teddy Hickey on Rampage.

Justice McLane yesterday disposed of the case against James Saling, who was arrested several days ago at the instance Ella Stanberry, who charged him with having disposed of a ring which belonged to her. Saling admitted his guilt and on his promise to restore the ring or pay the woman for it he was allowed to go by paying the costs of the case.

The case brought by Truant Officer Beardmore against Lambert Myers was also tried in Justice McLane's court yesterday. The case was the first of its kind ever tried in a local court and will doubtless serve as a warning to others who are liable to prosecution.

Myers' arrest was the result of his son's failure to attend school regularly. When arraigned before the 'squire he admitted that he had not taken the proper measures to keep his boy at school and was fined $5 and costs, the minimum for the offense.

Teddy Hickey, Sr., who was recently placed under bond by Justice McLane to keep the peace, was again before the magistrate last night for an alleged outbreak at his home. Teddy was given to understand that a repetition of hostilities would result in his arrest and confinement in the county jail until the court at Lisbon could arrange to put him "in the clear."

NEW LOCAL ORDER

Home Guards of America to Have a Home Here—Over 100 Charter Members.

A local home of the Home Guards of America will be instituted in this city tomorrow night. Organizers have been at work here for several weeks and have secured more than 100 charter members. Owing to the unusually large membership at the start, the order has brilliant prospects before it.

Leading officers from the headquarters of the order will be here tomorrow night to take charge of the initiatory work. The candidates will meet in the hall over the Potters' bank.

NEW MINE OPENED

Lisbon Men Begin the Development of West Point Coal Field.

The Beaver Coal company, which is composed mostly of Lisbon capitalists, has opened a coal bank on land leased by the company near West Point.

This company purchased a large tract of land in that vicinity during the late cross county railroad excitement. The land is underlaid with a valuable grade of coal and will be a paying investment for the owners whenever an outlet is built.

One mine has now been opened and it is stated that several teams will be put to work hauling the output to the Lisbon market.

ATTACKED BY A DOG

John Dawson Bitten on the Leg By a Savage Brute.

While returning from work last evening John Dawson, an employee of the Dresden pottery, who resides on Pleasant street, was attacked by a dog and was bitten on the right leg before he succeeded in beating it off. The dog was evidently a tramp, as none could be found who claimed it.

Mr. Dawson smashed his dinner pail in his efforts to beat off the dog. The wound was not a bad one, but one of the animal's teeth penetrated the flesh.

The gentleman had the bite cauterized and is not suffering any inconvenience in consequence.

GOOD BASEBALL FOR NEXT YEAR

East Liverpool to Be Represented in a New League Being Organized.

MEETING AT MANSFIELD

J. J. Rose Will Be in Attendance on November 10—Nine Other Teams to Be Included in the Circuit as Now Proposed.

J. J. Rose is in receipt of a communication from A. J. Watts, of Toledo, requesting him to be in attendance at a meeting which will be held in Mansfield on November 10 for the purpose of organizing what is to be known as the Ohio league of base ball clubs.

Watts is a prominent sporting man who has managed several league teams throughout the country and it is his intention to organize 10 clubs the coming season for the new league. This venture has been talked over considerably, but nothing definite has as yet been done.

It is proposed to form a circuit composed of teams at Springfield, Lima, Akron, Canton, Marion, Mansfield, Sandusky, East Liverpool, Youngstown and New Castle. Each team will be paid a salary of $600 per month. According to the schedule now arranged 126 games will be played by each team, 63 of which will be at home and 23 abroad.

Mr. Rose will attend the Mansfield meeting and it is almost an assured fact that East Liverpool will be represented in the new league. Many of the leading sporting men of the city have long hoped that a league would be organized here, and it is the belief of Mr. Rose that the venture would be a paying one.

There is already considerable speculation as to the personnel of the proposed local team, but it is probable that nearly all of the players who were with the team last season will be retained.

IN THE MAYOR'S COURT

Stranger Arrested for Drunkenness Sent Out of Town—Another Case on Hand.

Patrolmen Woods and Bryan last night arrested John Fitzgerald, a stranger, who was drunk and asleep near the Burford pottery. He was taken to jail in the patrol. At his hearing this morning Fitzgerald told the mayor that he wanted to go to New Castle and having no money with which to pay a fine he was discharged with the understanding that he was to "hit the pike" immediately, which he did.

Thomas McFetridge was arrested in the opera house last night by Special Officers Johnson and Weaver, charged with disorderly conduct. The patrol took him to the city hall, where he put up security for his appearance before the mayor today.

Several persons who were present at the theater when the arrest was made informed the mayor this morning that McFetridge was unjustly accused. His case will be fully investigated.

AN INDIAN IN LUCK

While Here He Learns of $3,000 Coming to Him And Goes to Get It.

F. Johnson, one of the Indians with the "Flaming Arrow" company, which played at the Grand Saturday night, is considered a very lucky individual by the other members of the company.

While in the city he received a letter from his brother, who is at Syracuse, N. Y. He was taking his meals at the Bagley restaurant, Second street, and being unable to read the letter, asked Clerk William English to read it for him. Mr. English did so, and it was learned that the Indian was wanted at Syracuse immediately, there being $3,000 waiting for him. He resigned the position with the show and left to join his brother.

Will Wed This Evening.

The marriage of Miss Mary Adams, of this city, and M. A. Hoobler, of Salineville, is announced to take place this evening at the country home of the Adams family near Salineville. The contracting parties are very well known in this city, where the bride resided for many years. The couple will leave tonight for a trip to the east.

A SMALL VOTE IS BEING CAST

Election Day in This City Is So Far One of the Quietest For Years.

FEATURES OF INTEREST

Are the Fight for Sheriff And the Contest for Legislative Honors—Vote Up to a Late Hour This Afternoon Was Very Light.

Considering the amount of interest which has been centered in at least two contests for county offices, East Liverpool today passed one of the quietest election days in many years. So far as East Liverpool is concerned everything in the way of state and national issues was lost sight of in the attempt to defeat Sheriff S. D. Noragon for re-election.

At the time C. P. Leonard was nominated to represent the Democrats as their candidate for sheriff, no one in Columbiana county took the matter seriously, the fact attracting no more attention than is usually excited by the average Democratic county convention. Shortly afterward the steel strike was inaugurated in Wellsville and politics was lost sight of by the working people in their endeavor to bring the big steel corporation to terms.

During the progress of the strike Sheriff Noragon was summoned to Wellsville by the mayor of that city, A. P. Dennis, a Democrat. The sheriff's actions while in Wellsville were alleged by the unionists of this district to have been entirely too favorable to the interests of the trust.

From that time to the present there was opposition to Noragon. Then it was that Leonard's candidacy was taken up by the unionists, more as a means for defeating Noragon than for any other reason. Many members of union organizations have been very active all through the campaign.

Another battle over which considerable interest has been manifested is that for representative. J. C. Walsh, the Democratic nominee, has been making an aggressive canvass, but good judges of the political situation say the odds against him are too great.

Every indication pointed to a very small vote being polled at each precinct, and as the balloting proceeded the shortage was even more pronounced than had been anticipated.

At 3 o'clock the following vote had been cast at the several precincts:

First ward, first precinct, 172.
First ward, second precinct, 143.
Second ward, first precinct, 150.
Second ward, second precinct, 199.
Third ward, first precinct, 160.
Second precinct, 179.
Fourth ward, first precinct, 172.
Second precinct, 145.
Fifth ward, 186.

A-LIGHT VOTE

Throughout the County, According to Reports Reaching Lisbon.

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—The election is passing off quietly at Lisbon. Reports from different parts of the county indicate a light vote.

It is said many farmers are not going to the polls. Judged by other elections, the vote at 10 a. m. is far below the average.

MANY WORKERS OUT

A Review of the Situation And Indications Up to Noon.

Scenes around the polling stations of the several wards of Wellsville today did not indicate any unusual interest. From the opening of the polls until noon there were very few votes cast. Quite a number of workers were out for all candidates and nearly every man who voted was given the chance of hearing persuasive arguments.

Around the Fifth ward polls there was no excitement whatever. The general belief was that Leonard would carry the ward, that the water works

bonds would be defeated and that Walsh would run even.

At the Fourth ward there was more enthusiasm displayed. Betting was a little scarce. A few bets were made by prominent politicians in the ratio of 3 to 1 for Noragon carrying Wellsville and even money that he would carry the county.

Emmet McKenzie, chairman of the Republican central committee, stated that 75 per cent of the railroad men would cast their votes for Noragon; the water works bonds, it was thought, stood little chance.

The result in the remaining wards could not well be predicted.

At 1 o'clock there had been cast 112 votes in the First ward, 115 in the Second, 150 in the Third, 151 in the Fourth and 175 in the Fifth.

GAS FOR LISBON

NEW COMPANY PROPOSES TO SUPPLY THE TOWN.

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—E. E. Hanna, of Salem, and James A. Diamond, of Pittsburgh, were in Lisbon last evening. They appeared before the town council, which was in session, to ask for a franchise for laying gas mains here for the Columbiana Gas company. The council agreed to grant the franchise, and will meet next Monday night for that purpose.

The Columbiana Gas company was recently formed to succeed the Salem Oil and Gas company which owns strong gas wells on the Fink farm, near here. The new company, it is said on good authority, has an abundance of cash to carry out its plans, and proposes to do so at once.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

Judgment Ordered Against B. P. Fink & Co. for $42.75 And $13.17 Costs.

The case which was brought in Justice Rose's court a few weeks ago by Attorney W. B. Hill, representing Jacob Epstein, proprietor of a Baltimore wholesale house, against B. P. Fink & Co., of this city, was tried yesterday and decided in the plaintiff's favor.

Epstein sought to recover $42.75, which he claimed as a balance on goods sold to defendants. Justice Rose, after hearing the evidence submitted, rendered a judgment for the plaintiff for the full amount of his claim, together with the costs, amounting to $13.17.

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—Catherine Garthwaite, administratrix of the estate of the late Harry Garthwaite, of Leetonia, has been authorized to settle for $300 the claim against the Salem Iron company for causing the death of her husband.

Appealed to Common Pleas.

Lisbon, November 5.—(Special)—The case of J. Frank Adams against Bannon Loudon, of Wayne township, has been appealed to common pleas court by the defendant. Mr. Adams was given a judgment in Squire Dickinson's court for $25 damages and costs.

The News Review bulletins tonight will give early and authentic election news, both local and general. Watch for them.

BURYING WIRES IS A BIG JOB

MARVEL TO THE NOVICE

The Interesting Work Now Being Done By the Bell Company—A Great Trunk System of Copper Wire Under the City's Streets.

The Bell Telephone company is doing important work in placing its wires underground in the business district of the city. Its gang of men, under the direction of William Pidgeon, has almost completed the main trunk of the conduit system on Market street.

At a depth of 3 feet 8 inches is placed a series of clay tiling, called by the telephone people "ducts." There are 20 of these ducts in the trunk line and immediately in front of the exchange 22 of them which are concreted together. The tiling is square with a 3-inch hole in the center that is perfectly round. Twenty cables, 2 1/4 inches in thickness, will be run through these ducts.

Along Midway alley, where the trunk divides, a four-duct conduit will be laid to Broadway.

In the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets, a 16-duct conduit will be extended from the trunk, on Market, to Broadway.

This is a description of what the Bell people are doing as taken from a profile of their improvements which were kindly shown to the News Review.

It is a marvel to the novice how the cables can be placed in these ducts after the masonry has been completed and the ditch filled in. The ducts are all made smooth with a swabbing-out process, by means of a mandrill. A series of rods, called "coons," are shoved into the conduit ducts and these permit a wire to be drawn through, then a two-inch rope, and to the end of the rope is attached the heavy copper cable. The cable is drawn through the duct by means of a winch.

When the Bell begins the use of the underground wires a change will be made in the switchboards at the exchange. The drop system will be done away with. It will not be necessary to ring the bell, but a call will be answered when the receiver is taken from the 'phone. Instead of a drop on the switchboard there will be only an electric flash light on the number, which the operator in the exchange will attend to.

By the underground system a pair of copper wires is in use for each telephone. This will make a more

CAME AS A SURPRISE

Gift of an Organ to the A. M. E. Church Sunday School.

The members of the A. M. E. Sunday school are the happy recipients of an organ presented to them by the Young Ladies' Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church. It came as a surprise. The A. M. E. Sunday school officers had sent out some little girls with little books gathering pennies and dimes to get themselves an organ.

When these young ladies heard of this they seized this opportunity to do good, and did it. The whole church returns thanks.

DOING ITS WORK OVER

Assessing Board Meets to Act Upon Calcutta Road Improvements.

The assessing board recently appointed by council to make the assessments on Calcutta road met at 3 o'clock this afternoon at city hall for the purpose of going over the work once more.

The board is composed of J. M. Kelly, William Kent and John Vodrey. The members of the board completed their work some time ago, but when a report was submitted to council it was found there was an irregularity in the method employed in converting the city's share of $6,000 to the fund. For this reason it was necessary to again go over the work in order that it might be legal.

At the time the first rating was made the assessing board canvassed the entire section, but on this occasion it will merely go over the former figures and plots and make a revised report to council.

CONFESSED GUILT

JAMES SALING'S CASE DISPOSED OF BY JUSTICE McLANE.

Lambert Myers Fined for Violating School Law—Teddy Hickey on Rampage.

Justice McLane yesterday disposed of the case against James Saling, who was arrested several days ago at the instance Ella Stanberry, who charged him with having disposed of a ring which belonged to her. Saling admitted his guilt and on his promise to restore the ring or pay the woman for it he was allowed to go by paying the costs of the case.

The case brought by Truant Officer Beardmore against Lambert Myers was also tried in Justice McLane's court yesterday. The case was the first of its kind ever tried in a local court and will doubtless serve as a warning to others who are liable to prosecution.

Myers' arrest was the result of his son's failure to attend school regularly. When arraigned before the 'squire he admitted that he had not taken the proper measures to keep his boy at school and was fined $5 and costs, the minimum for the offense.

Teddy Hickey, Sr., who was recently placed under bond by Justice McLane to keep the peace, was again before the magistrate last night for an alleged outbreak at his home. Teddy was given to understand that a repetition of hostilities would result in his arrest and confinement in the county jail until the court at Lisbon could arrange to put him "in the clear."

NEW LOCAL ORDER

Home Guards of America to Have a Home Here—Over 100 Charter Members.

A local home of the Home Guards of America will be instituted in this city tomorrow night. Organizers have been at work here for several weeks and have secured more than 100 charter members. Owing to the unusually large membership at the start, the order has brilliant prospects before it.

Leading officers from the headquarters of the order will be here tomorrow night to take charge of the initiatory work. The candidates will meet in the hall over the Potters' bank.

NEW MINE OPENED

Lisbon Men Begin the Development of West Point Coal Field.

The Beaver Coal company, which is composed mostly of Lisbon capitalists, has opened a coal bank on land leased by the company near West Point.

This company purchased a large tract of land in that vicinity during the late cross county railroad excitement. The land is underlaid with a valuable grade of coal and will be a paying investment for the owners whenever an outlet is built.

One mine has now been opened and it is stated that several teams will be put to work hauling the output to the Lisbon market.

ATTACKED BY A DOG

John Dawson Bitten on the Leg By a Savage Brute.

While returning from work last evening John Dawson, an employe of the Dresden pottery, who resides on Pleasant street, was attacked by a dog and was bitten on the right leg before he succeeded in beating it off. The dog was evidently a tramp, as none could be found who claimed it.

Mr. Dawson smashed his dinner pail in his efforts to beat off the dog. The wound was not a bad one, but one of the animal's teeth penetrated the flesh.

The gentleman had the bite cauterized and is not suffering any inconvenience in consequence.

GOOD BASEBALL FOR NEXT YEAR

East Liverpool to Be Represented in a New League Being Organized.

MEETING AT MANSFIELD

J. J. Rose Will Be in Attendance on November 10—Nine Other Teams to Be Included in the Circuit as Now Proposed.

J. J. Rose is in receipt of a communication from A. J. Watts, of Toledo, requesting him to be in attendance at a meeting which will be held in Mansfield on November 10 for the purpose of organizing what is to be known as the Ohio league of base ball clubs.

Watts is a prominent sporting man who has managed several league teams throughout the country and it is his intention to organize 10 clubs the coming season for the new league. This venture has been talked over considerably, but nothing definite has as yet been done.

It is proposed to form a circuit composed of teams at Springfield, Lima, Akron, Canton, Marion, Mansfield, Sandusky, East Liverpool, Youngstown and New Castle. Each team will be paid a salary of $600 per month. According to the schedule now arranged 126 games will be played by each team, 63 of which will be at home and 23 abroad.

Mr. Rose will attend the Mansfield meeting and it is almost an assured fact that East Liverpool will be represented in the new league. Many of the leading sporting men of the city have long hoped that a league would be organized here, and it is the belief of Mr. Rose that the venture would be a paying one.

There is already considerable speculation as to the personnel of the proposed local team, but it is probable that nearly all of the players who were with the team last season will be retained.

IN THE MAYOR'S COURT

Stranger Arrested for Drunkenness Sent Out of Town—Another Case on Hand.

Patrolmen Woods and Bryan last night arrested John Fitzgerald, a stranger, who was drunk and asleep near the Burford pottery. He was taken to jail in the patrol. At his hearing this morning Fitzgerald told the mayor that he wanted to go to New Castle and having no money with which to pay a fine he was discharged with the understanding that he was to "hit the pike" immediately, which he did.

Thomas McFetridge was arrested in the opera house last night by Special Officers Johnson and Weaver, charged with disorderly conduct. The patrol took him to the city hall, where he put up security for his appearance before the mayor today.

Several persons who were present at the theater when the arrest was made informed the mayor this morning that McFetridge was unjustly accused. His case will be fully investigated.

AN INDIAN IN LUCK

While Here He Learns of $3,000 Coming to Him And Goes to Get It.

F. Johnson, one of the Indians with the "Flaming Arrow" company, which played at the Grand Saturday night, is considered a very lucky individual by the other members of the company.

While in the city he received a letter from his brother, who is at Syracuse, N. Y. He was taking his meals at the Bagley restaurant, Second street, and being unable to read the letter, asked Clerk William English to read it for him. Mr. English did so, and it was learned that the Indian was wanted at Syracuse immediately, there being $3,000 waiting for him. He resigned the position with the show and left to join his brother.

Will Wed This Evening.

The marriage of Miss Mary Adams, of this city, and M. A. Hoobler, of Sallineville, is announced to take place this evening at the country home of the Adams family near Sallineville. The contracting parties are very well known in this city, where the bride resided for many years. The couple will leave tonight for a trip to the east.

EAST END DEPOT

INCREASED BUSINESS CAUSES A DEMAND FOR IT.

People Are Hopeful That the Railroad Company May Be Brought to Time.

The East End still wants its depot. A big business is done in the East End by the Pennsylvania company, but the depot is a long delayed affair. A rough old shack stands opposite the National pottery which the Pennsylvania company constructed with the intention that it be used as a depot.

The little shed is in a partial state of completion on a tract of land that was owned by the Puritan Land company, and was granted to the Pennsylvania company for a lesser consideration than lots were being sold to other people. But the Pennsylvania company has never used the little building because it has been thinking of putting up a suitable depot building for the East End.

The trains now stop on Mulberry street, with no accommodations for East Enders save a rude platform. A suit is pending in the common pleas court at Lisbon wherein the Puritan Land company is the plaintiff and the Pennsylvania is the defendant. The land company has sued the Pennsylvania for $3,000 for failure to comply with their agreement in erecting a depot to cost that amount.

No action has thus far been taken by the Pennsylvania in its end of the suit, and it is very probable that a judgment will be returned against the railroad company if it does not build that East End depot.

Business done by the railroad has increased over 100 percent this fall, both in express and freight traffic in the East End. No regular East End agent is employed save by the Adams Express company, which has W. C. Supplee. Mr. Supplee attends to the Pennsylvania's business in the East End, but has a big task.

It is felt that the depot question and better facilities on the part of the Pennsylvania company in the East End are rapidly coming to a focus. The Puritan Land company's suit gives the East Enders hope and they already see visions of the promised depot.

On the other hand, Mrs. Seabrook was shown to be a woman in good circumstances, and as the mother had expressed the wish that she should have the custody of the babe, Judge Eason in his decision followed the wishes of the mother, expressed on her death bed.

"Buttonholes Sold Here."

"Button Holes For Sale Here" is a sign which peers out through a rather dirty window of a lower floor tenement on the east side. In view of the possibility that it might mean just what it said and that the dealer really sold holes for buttons a Tribune reporter investigated.

A woman whose dress was a mixture of bathing suit and ball gown answered his knock.

"You sell buttonholes here?" was asked.

"Naw, we make 'em!" she exclaimed, with as much disgust as a very squeaky voice was capable of showing.

She was finally persuaded to tell something of her new business.

"You see, it's this way," she began. "The working girls who live over here have to dress pretty well and do it on little money. Most of 'em makes their own clothes, but they have not too much time to do the work in. Now, if you was a woman you'd know that it was mighty hard to make buttonholes, especially by hand. Poor girls can't afford buttonhole machines. They make up the dresses and bring 'em over to us, and we put in the buttonholes at so much a hole, 'cording to the kind of stuff and how well they wants it done. And that's all there is to it."—New York Tribune.

A Youthful Financier.

A correspondent asks, Will some of your mathematical geniuses kindly tell me if I am absolutely devoid of the calculating faculty in not being able to see through the following three cornered trick, shall I say? A beggar boy asked an old gentleman in the street for sixpence.

"What will you do with it if I give you one?" asked the old gentleman.

"Turn it into ninepence quick," replied the boy.

"How?"

"Give me the tanner, and I'll soon show you."

The boy got the money, darted off to a baker's shop and bought a three-penny loaf, with which he returned to the old gentleman and handed him back 3 pennies.

"How's this? You said you would make the sixpence into ninepence."

"So I have. The baker's got three-pence, you've got three-pence and I've got a three-penny loaf. That's ninepence."—Pearson's Weekly.

MEN WHO MADE THE COMING ST. LOUIS SHOW POSSIBLE.

Americans Who Negotiated the Louisiana Purchase Are Famous, but the Frenchmen Are Unknown Here. Marquis Who Conducted the Deal.

At the St. Louis Louisiana Purchase Centennial exposition, to be held in 1903, especial prominence will be given to the history of the territory. The men who were concerned in its cession to the United States by France will come in for a good share of attention. On the American side President Jefferson, James Monroe and Robert R. Livingston are well known to Americans, and Napoleon Bonaparte, who sold the territory to us, is also not unfamiliar. But the Marquis de Barbe-Marbois, who acted as Napoleon's representative in the negotiations, is not as well known on this side of the Atlantic as his part in our history entitles him to be.

Marbois was one of the ablest of modern French politicians and statesmen. Like the well known Englishman of the name, he succeeded in holding office through quite a number of changes of government. He served Louis XVI. in various diplomatic capacities and held other offices under the directorate. In 1801 Bonaparte, while first consul of France, appointed Marbois director of finance or minister of the treasury. It was while acting as such that Marbois conducted the negotiations that resulted in the Louisiana purchase. He was dismissed by the emperor in 1805, but in 1808 he became president of the chamber of accounts. Finally, in 1815 and 1816, when Louis XVIII. ruled France, Marbois became keeper of the seals and minister of justice. He died in 1837 at the age of ninety-two.

After Spain and France had alternated in the ownership of Louisiana for a century or more it fell into the hands of Napoleon in 1801. Bonaparte soon found that he had on his hands a white elephant of the first order, since he must take actual possession of the territory and keep it or submit to seeing it fall into the hands of England, his greatest enemy. At the same time the enterprising Yankees were making

FRANCOIS, MARQUIS DE BARBE-MARBOIS, trouble for the first consul with their demands for trading rights and their invasion of what was lawful French territory. At home also the retention of Louisiana was disapproved since it meant the expenditure of vast sums, which would be a drain that the treasury of France could not stand.

While Napoleon was considering the best way out of his Louisiana difficulties the United States came to his assistance with an offer to purchase the city of New Orleans and the territory which controls the mouth of the Mississippi. Robert R. Livingston, our minister to France, had already opened negotiations with the first consul looking to that end, but the latter had put him off with evasions and promises. At this juncture President Jefferson sent to Livingston's aid James Monroe, afterward president of the United States. At about the same time Napoleon arrived at the decision that he could best retain the friendship of the United States and cripple England by selling to the former not merely New Orleans, but the whole of the vast territory then known as Louisiana.

A FITTING TRIBUTE

A Citizen of East Liverpool Pays a Well Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respected citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before.

Mr. H. Thompson, of 306 Fourth street, presser at the D. E. McNicol pottery and resident of East Liverpool for the past 45 years, says: "During my campaign experiences between the years of '61 and '64, I contracted a weakness of the kidneys, and at intervals I had an aching pain across the small of my back, and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down, and in fact could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. They filled the bill exactly. They gave me almost immediate relief and warded off the last attack."

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

Napoleon's price for the cession of Louisiana was fixed at about $15,000,000 of our money. The negotiations proceeded between Marbois on the one hand and Livingston and Monroe on the other. There was no hitch save over the price and the boundaries. The latter were left uncertain, and the westward growth of the United States has left it immaterial whether they were then definitely fixed or not. Later treaties made with Spain and Great Britain settled the lines between their territories and those of this country. Finding that Napoleon and his minister were firm in adhering to the price they had set upon the territory, the American commissioners agreed to pay the sum demanded.

The Louisiana purchase embraced 2,300 square miles in the present state of Alabama, 3,600 in what is now Mississippi, the whole of the present states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas, Minnesota west of the Mississippi, Kansas, all but the southwest corner; the whole of the Indian Territory, and the eastern sections of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. It is held by some that the remainder of the last three states and Idaho, Oregon and Washington should be included.

Be Sure You Read.

The man who would like to know something about astronomy must lay out a little scheme of study for himself, get the books which are necessary and have them at hand the moment he is at leisure. The man who wishes to familiarize himself with political economy, with politics or with industrial questions, which are now of such importance, must find out what textbooks he ought to have, secure those textbooks and keep them by his side.

The man who wishes to know literature does not need to lay out an elaborate plan which fills him with discouragement by its very magnitude, but he does need to decide what author he is going to read next, and he does need to get the book and keep it within easy reach.

Almost all the great classics are now published in such portable forms that a man can carry a copy of Shakespeare, the essays of Bacon, the poems of Tennyson or of Browning, a translation of "Faust," Matthew Arnold's criticisms, Emerson's essays or John Burroughs' charming transcriptions of nature in his coat pocket and substitute them for the newspaper which is thrust in his face by an eager newsboy and which he buys because he has nothing else to read—Success.

"You sell buttonholes here?" was asked.

"Now, we make 'em," she exclaimed, with as much disgust as a very squeaky voice was capable of showing.

She was finally persuaded to tell something of her new business.

"You see, it's this way," she began. "The working girls who live over here have to dress pretty well and do it on little money. Most of 'em makes their own clothes, but they have not too much time to do the work in. Now, if you was a woman you'd know that it was mighty hard to make buttonholes, specially by hand. Poor girls can't afford buttonhole machines. They make up the dresses and bring 'em over to us, and we put in the buttonholes at so much a hole, 'cording to the kind of stuff and how well they wants it done. And that's all there is to it."—New York Tribune.

A Youthful Financier.

A correspondent asks, Will some of your mathematical geniuses kindly tell me if I am absolutely devoid of the calculating faculty in not being able to see through the following three cornered trick, shall I say? A beggar boy asked an old gentleman in the street for sixpence.

"What will you do with it if I give you one?" asked the old gentleman.

"Turn it into ninpence quick," replied the boy.

"How?"

"Give me the tanner, and I'll soon show you."

The boy got the money, darted off to a baker's shop and bought a three-penny loaf, with which he returned to the old gentleman and handed him back 3 pennies.

"How's this? You said you would make the sixpence into ninpence."

"So I have. The baker's got three-pence, you've got three-pence and I've got a three-penny loaf. That's ninpence."—Pearson's Weekly.

Americans Who Negotiated the Louisiana Purchase Are Famous, but the Frenchmen Are Unknown Here. Marquis Who Conducted the Deal.

At the St. Louis Louisiana Purchase Centennial exposition, to be held in 1903, especial prominence will be given to the history of the territory. The men who were concerned in its cession to the United States by France will come in for a good share of attention. On the American side President Jefferson, James Monroe and Robert R. Livingston are well known to Americans, and Napoleon Bonaparte, who sold the territory to us, is also not unfamiliar. But the Marquis de Barbe-Marbois, who acted as Napoleon's representative in the negotiations, is not as well known on this side of the Atlantic as his part in our history entitles him to be.

Marbois was one of the ablest of modern French politicians and statesmen. Like the well known Englishman of Bray, he succeeded in holding office through quite a number of changes of government. He served Louis XVI. in various diplomatic capacities and held other offices under the directorate. In 1801 Bonaparte, while first consul of France, appointed Marbois director of finance or minister of the treasury. It was while acting as such that Marbois conducted the negotiations that resulted in the Louisiana purchase. He was dismissed by the emperor in 1805, but in 1808 he became president of the chamber of accounts. Finally, in 1815 and 1816, when Louis XVIII. ruled France, Marbois became keeper of the seals and minister of justice. He died in 1837 at the age of ninety-two.

After Spain and France had alternated in the ownership of Louisiana for a century or more it fell into the hands of Napoleon in 1801. Bonaparte soon found that he had on his hands a white elephant of the first order, since he must take actual possession of the territory and keep it or submit to seeing it fall into the hands of England, his greatest enemy. At the same time the enterprising Yankees were making trouble for the first consul with their demands for trading rights and their invasion of what was lawful French territory. At home also the retention of Louisiana was disapproved since it meant the expenditure of vast sums, which would be a drain that the treasury of France could not stand.

While Napoleon was considering the best way out of his Louisiana difficulties the United States came to his assistance with an offer to purchase the city of New Orleans and the territory which controls the mouth of the Mississippi. Robert R. Livingston, our minister to France, had already opened negotiations with the first consul looking to that end, but the latter had put him off with evasions and promises. At this juncture President Jefferson sent to Livingston's aid James Monroe, afterward president of the United States. At about the same time Napoleon arrived at the decision that he could best retain the friendship of the United States and cripple England by selling to the former not merely New Orleans, but the whole of the vast territory then known as Louisiana.

A FITTING TRIBUTE

A Citizen of East Liverpool Pays a Well Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respected citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before.

Mr. H. Thompson, of 306 Fourth street, presser at the D. E. McNicol pottery and resident of East Liverpool for the past 45 years, says: "During my campaign experiences between the years of '61 and '64, I contracted a weakness of the kidneys, and at intervals I had an aching pain across the small of my back, and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down, and in fact could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. They filled the bill exactly. They gave me almost immediate relief and warded off the last attack."

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

Napoleon's price for the cession of Louisiana was fixed at about $15,000,000 of our money. The negotiations proceeded between Marbois on the one hand and Livingston and Monroe on the other. There was no hitch save over the price and the boundaries. The latter were left uncertain, and the westward growth of the United States has left it immaterial whether they were then definitely fixed or not. Later treaties made with Spain and Great Britain settled the lines between their territories and those of this country. Finding that Napoleon and his minister were firm in adhering to the price they had set upon the territory, the American commissioners agreed to pay the sum demanded.

The Louisiana purchase embraced 2,300 square miles in the present state of Alabama, 3,600 in what is now Mississippi, the whole of the present states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas, Minnesota west of the Mississippi, Kansas, all but the southwest corner; the whole of the Indian Territory, and the eastern sections of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. It is held by some that the remainder of the last three states and Idaho, Oregon and Washington should be included.

Be Sure You Read.

The man who would like to know something about astronomy must lay out a little scheme of study for himself, get the books which are necessary and have them at hand the moment he is at leisure. The man who wishes to familiarize himself with political economy, with politics or with industrial questions, which are now of such importance, must find out what textbooks he ought to have, secure those textbooks and keep them by his side.

The man who wishes to know literature does not need to lay out an elaborate plan which fills him with discouragement by its very magnitude, but he does need to decide what author he is going to read next, and he does need to get the book and keep it within easy reach.

Almost all the great classics are now published in such portable forms that a man can carry a play of Shakespeare, the essays of Bacon, the poems of Tennyson or of Browning, a translation of "Faust," Matthew Arnold's criticisms, Emerson's essays or John Burroughs' charming transcriptions of nature in his coat pocket and substitute them for the newspaper which is thrust in his face by an eager newsboy and which he buys because he has nothing else to read—Success.

OUTLOOK IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Representatives of Both Sides Claimed They Would Win a Victory.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—The leaders of both the Republican and fusion parties last night reiterated their claim that their respective candidates will carry the state.

Chairman Reeder, of the Republican party, said last night that late advices received from western and northwestern counties lead him to raise the estimate. He now says Harris and Potter, the Republican candidates, respectively for state treasurer and supreme court justice, will have nearer 110,000 than 100,000 majority.

Chairman Cressy, of the Democratic state committee, declined to give figures, but predicted the election of Coray and Yerkes, the fusion candidates for state treasurer and justice of the supreme court. He said:

Chairman Ritter, of the Union party, also claims that Coray and Yerkes will be victorious. He said they will come to Philadelphia with at least 50,000 majority, and that Philadelphia may even give a majority for the fusion candidates.

Chairman Miles, of the Philadelphia Republican city committee, claims a majority of over 50,000 for the regular Republican state ticket and the same figure for Weaver, regular Republican candidate for district attorney.

The Municipal League are predicting the election of Rothermel, the fusion candidate for district attorney, by from 10,000 to 20,000 over Weaver, and also predict a majority in the city for the state fusion ticket.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 5.—Hon. E. A. Coray, the Union-Democratic candidate for state treasurer, issued a statement to the voters of Pennsylvania last night, in which he says he is in receipt of reports from every county in the state and they all indicate a big vote for the fusion ticket.

EMPLOYER—JOIN THE UNION

By BISHOP HENRY C. POTTER

WE WILL NEVER SOLVE THE QUESTION OF LABOR UNTIL THE ORGANIZING MINDS, THE GUIDING HANDS AND EMPLOYING MANAGERS ARE IDENTIFIED WITH THE UNIONS

WITH WHICH THE EMPLOYEES ARE IDENTIFIED.

There should be a mutual understanding between employers and their help, and both should be animated by a common tie of brotherhood and fealty.

THE LABORER AND EMPLOYER MUST BE BROUGHT CLOSER TOGETHER.

You may legislate as you please, impose taxation as you please or by any other process readjust the conflicting elements of modern society, BUT IF YOU HAVE NOT YOUR HEART IN THE WORK YOU WILL FAIL UTTERLY. The solution of the labor problem consists in the awakening in the hearts of the employer of deep concern for the welfare of those who are in his employ. Their aims and hopes should not be antagonistic. They should mingle together and observe the laws of social contact.

THEIR AIMS BEING IDENTICAL, THEIR METHODS SHOULD BE HARMONIOUS IF THOSE AIMS ARE TO BE SUBSERVED.

He thinks the state, outside of Philadelphia, will give 75,000 for fusion. No prediction is made as to the vote in Philadelphia. The agricultural and coal mining counties are expected to vote for Coray and Yerkes.

CLAIMS AS TO OHIO,

Both Managers Repeated Former Ones—Most Interest In Legislative Contests.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—State officers and members of the legislature are to be elected in Ohio today. There is perhaps greater interest in the result of the legislative contests than in the gubernatorial election, from the fact that the legislature will be chosen today to elect a successor to United States Senator Joseph B. Foraker.

Advices from different parts of the state last night indicated great interest in doubtful counties for members of the legislature. There are no hold-over members, all members of both branches being chosen every two years. During the campaign Senator Foraker, who is a candidate for re-election, and Senator Hanna have appeared repeatedly on the same platform and co-operated with Chairman Dick for both the state and the legislative tickets. The state administration has always been a potent factor in senatorial contests in Ohio. It is conceded that the late John Sherman would have been defeated by Foraker in the former's last contest for the senatorship, but for the assistance of William McKinley, who was then governor. In like manner Governor Hoadley supported Senator Payne, Governor Campbell supported Senator Brice, and Governor Bushnell supported Senator Foraker. When Governor Bushnell, during his second term, opposed Marcus A. Hanna for senator, the success of the latter by one vote was an exception to the rule, and it was said the influence of the national administration then overcame the state administration. If elected today, Governor Nash will be in power, several months after the election at which members of the legislature are elected to choose a successor to Senator Hanna. It is reported that Congressman Dick, who has been chairman of the state committee for several years, is likely to be the Republican candidate for governor two years hence.

Governor Nash, Republican, then had a plurality of 49,000 over John R. McLean, Democrat. Two years ago 106,000 votes were cast for Major Samuel M. Jones, of Toledo, non-partisan candidate, and 16,000 votes for other minor candidates. The Jones vote of 1899 will materially affect the comparisons, especially in Cleveland and Toledo, as Jones then carried both Cuyahoga and Lucas counties. In 1899 there were 3,162 precincts in the state. This year there are 3,234 precincts. Both sides last night repeated their previous claims. The betting was at various odds on the Republicans, and mostly on the size of the plurality. The most spirited betting is on the governor results in Cuyahoga, Franklin and other doubtful counties. Cold weather continued throughout the state yesterday and last night.

FIGURES ON NEW YORK.

Low's Manager Said He Would Win by 70,000—Shepard's Manager Claimed 40,000.

New York, Nov. 5.—At midnight last night—six hours before the opening of the polls—both sides in the municipal contest were claiming the victory. The most strenuous talk came from the fusion leaders, who were more in evidence at their headquarters than the Democrats at theirs, the latter, after the distribution of campaign funds in the afternoon, having hurried to their several election precincts. John A. Mason, of the Shepard headquarters, said he felt confident of the result and placed the Democratic candidate's majority at 40,000.

During the late afternoon Seth Low, the fusion candidate, at his own headquarters, said:

"I think things could look more rosy. This has been a most interesting campaign. The fight is now over and no matter who is elected I am sure that the city will profit by the agitation of the questions which have been the main issues of the campaign."

Robert C. Morris, chairman of the Republican campaign committee, stuck to his estimate of 70,000 for Mr. Low.

Edward M. Shepard said last evening that he had no particular statement to make, and nothing to say of the campaign beyond what he had already said, and no issues to discuss any further than he has already discussed them.

ELECTION IN KENTUCKY.

Republicans Expected to Challenge Votes In Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5.—It appeared last night that the special feature of the election in Louisville today, when a mayor and full city and county legislative tickets will be voted for, will be the attempt of the Republicans to challenge Democratic voters whom they suspect of being illegally registered. The Republican managers will have men at the polls in each precinct with a list of names of persons whom the Republicans allege are illegally registered. They declare they will challenge the vote of any person on the list who offers to vote. The Republican managers sent circular letters through the mails to the persons in question and claim a large number were returned by the letter carriers with the endorsement that the person to whom the letter was addressed was not to be found at the address, given, and as this address was the address from which the person in question had registered, the Republicans regard the non-delivery of the letters as presumption of illegal registration. They threaten that if such persons offer to vote they will be arrested. The Democrats deny all charges of illegal registration and charge the Republicans with attempted intimidation. They deny that any of the voters on the Republican managers' lists can be arrested for offering to vote, and say any challenged voter can by affidavit establish his right to vote.

The weather promises to be clear and cool.

Chairman O. C. McCord, of the Democratic state campaign committee, last night gave out a statement in which he claims the Democrats will have 22 to 25 of the 38 members of the senate in the next general assembly and from 62 to 65 of the 100 members of the lower house. This general assembly will elect a United States senator to succeed William J. Deboe.

FIGURES NOT GIVEN OUT.

Both Parties Claimed They Would Carry Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 5.—On the eve of election in this state both parties claimed to have the better of the situation, but the leaders refused to give any figures.

A state comptroller and a clerk of the court of appeals are the only state officers to be chosen, and most interest attaches to the election of a legislature, which will choose a United States senator to succeed George L. Wellington, who was chosen as a Republican and whose term will expire on March 3, 1903.

The campaign, which was one of the shortest on record, was marked with an apathy on the part of the voters that has puzzled the leaders of both parties and left the result considerably in doubt.

In Baltimore city especially the situation is anything but clear. The Republican managers claim that they will elect the city ticket and will carry all three legislative districts. They count upon a large independent vote for their ticket. The Democrats say that their city ticket is safe and that they will win their legislative tickets in two districts.

In the counties the outcome is also exceedingly doubtful. The Democrats unquestionably believe that they will carry several of the counties heretofore considered hopelessly Republican and this belief is largely based upon the expectation that the new arrangement of the ballot will disfranchise the greater part of the illiterate colored voters.

Republican leaders from the counties claim that they have succeeded in drilling their vote and that their loss will be very small.

Nobody has as yet been able to forecast the exact effect of the new ballot law, and each side claims that the other will suffer heaviest through its operation. Both sides appeared to be equally as confident, and only the counting of the vote can decide between the rival claimants.

The counting of the ballots this year will be much more difficult than formerly, and it is doubtful whether the complete returns will be in until Wednesday afternoon.

MASSACHUSETTS QUIET.

Believed Republicans Would Carry State and Democrats Boston.

Boston, Nov. 5.—No eve of an election ever saw Massachusetts quieter than last night. The talk in Boston, at the clubs, hotels and political headquarters, was not on the result of the state ticket, but on the size of the Democratic majority in Boston, and from what could be deduced from it as bearing on the mayoralty fight next month. In the absence of issues it was expected that one-third of the voters would stay at home today and that Governor W. Murray Crane, the Republican candidate, would be re-elected by about 50,000 majority over Hon. Josiah Quincy, the Democratic candidate.

There seemed little prospect of any noteworthy change in the complexion of the legislature. Both political managers agreed very nearly as to the total vote, and for once as to the probable Republican majority.

It seems generally agreed that if Mr. Quincy obtains a lead over the Republican candidate for governor of 6,000 in Boston that the chances of the Democrats electing a mayor will be very good. Anything below 5,000 will give the city Republicans much hope.

Rain was predicted last night, which may effect the total vote in the state to some extent.

AVERAGE VOTE NOT EXPECTED IN NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—With weather reported about zero at Alliance, in Northwestern Nebraska, a light fall of snow in the eastern part of the state, and prospects of more, the outlook is not favorable for anything like an average vote today, even for an off year. Political managers affect to believe that with the interest awakened in the closing days of the campaign, the voters will come out regardless of the weather, but they are united in the opinion that the totals will be much below last year. Headquarters of the two campaign committees were almost deserted last night, but the rooms of both were open and will so remain until the result is definitely known.

COLORADO MANAGERS EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 5.—Both the Democratic and Republican party leaders last night expressed confidence in the result of today's election. The Democrats control several of the county offices. The sheriff, however, supports the Republican ticket, and it is asserted that he will appoint a large number of deputies for duty at the polls, while on the other hand the fire and police board, composed of Democrats, is charged with appointing a large force of special policemen to counteract the action of the sheriff. Two years ago a collision occurred between the police and deputy sheriffs, in which several men were killed and wounded, and similar trouble is expected this year if the same tactics be followed.

Rhode Island Election.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5.—For the first time in the history of Rhode Island the elections of state, city and town governments will be held simultaneously today. Interest is chiefly centered in local issues. There is no great evidence of enthusiasm in the campaign.

Conaty Announced Change.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Right Rev. Monsignor Conaty announced that it had been found necessary to transfer to the cathedral at Baltimore the ceremony of his consecration as titular bishop of Samos. The number of prelates, clergymen and lay people who have already signified their intention to be present is so great that any chapel in the university would be taxed far beyond its power to accommodate them. The ceremony will therefore take place at Baltimore, Sunday, Nov. 24, in the cathedral church of Cardinal Gibbons, the chancellor of the university. The dinner to the visiting clergy will be given at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore.

Murder Trial Commenced.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—The trial of John Considine, charged with the murder of Chief of Police Meredith was begun in the superior court. The attorneys for the defendant renewed their motion for a continuance, which was again denied. The work of empanelling a jury was at once begun. The case of Tom Considine, jointly accused with his brother John, has not yet been set for trial.

Birds' Songs.

A French writer, Henri Coupon, says that, notwithstanding the fact of their simplicity, the songs of birds cannot be imitated with musical instruments because of the impossibility of reproducing their peculiar timbre. The notes of birds, while corresponding with our musical scale, also include vibrations occupying the intervals between our notes. The duration of birds' songs is usually very short, two or three seconds for thrushes and chaffinches, four or five seconds for blackbirds, but from two to five minutes for the lark.

OUTLOOK IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Representatives of Both Sides Claimed They Would Win a Victory.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—The leaders of both the Republican and fusion parties last night reiterated their claim that their respective candidates will carry the state.

Chairman Reeder, of the Republican party, said last night that late advice received from western and northwestern counties lead him to raise the estimate. He now says Harris and Potter, the Republican candidates, respectively for state treasurer and supreme court justice, will have nearer 110,000 than 100,000 majority.

Chairman Cressy, of the Democratic state committee, declined to give figures, but predicted the election of Coray and Yerkes, the fusion candidates for state treasurer and justice of the supreme court. He said:

Chairman Ritter, of the Union party, also claims that Coray and Yerkes will be victorious. He said they will come to Philadelphia with at least 50,000 majority, and that Philadelphia may even give a majority for the fusion candidates.

Chairman Miles, of the Philadelphia Republican city committee, claims a majority of over 50,000 for the regular Republican state ticket and the same figure for Weaver, regular Republican candidate for district attorney.

The Municipal League are predicting the election of Rothmel, the fusion candidate for district attorney, by from 10,000 to 20,000 over Weaver, and also predict a majority in the city for the state fusion ticket.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 5.—Hon. E. A. Coray, the Union-Democratic candidate for state treasurer, issued a statement to the voters of Pennsylvania last night, in which he says he is in receipt of reports from every county in the state and they all indicate a big vote for the fusion ticket.

EMPLOYER—JOIN THE UNION

By BISHOP HENRY C. POTTER

WE WILL NEVER SOLVE THE QUESTION OF LABOR UNTIL THE ORGANIZING MINDS, THE GUIDING HANDS AND EMPLOYING MANAGERS ARE IDENTIFIED WITH THE UNIONS

WITH WHICH THE EMPLOYEES ARE IDENTIFIED. There should be a mutual understanding between employers and their help, and both should be animated by a common tie of brotherhood and fealty.

THE LABORER AND EMPLOYER MUST BE BROUGHT CLOSER TOGETHER.

You may legislate as you please, impose taxation as you please or by any other process readjust the conflicting elements of modern society. BUT IF YOU HAVE NOT YOUR HEART IN THE WORK YOU WILL FAIL UTTERLY. The solution of the labor problem consists in the awakening in the hearts of the employer of deep concern for the welfare of those who are in his employ. Their aims and hopes should not be antagonistic. They should mingle together and observe the laws of social contact.

THEIR AIMS BEING IDENTICAL, THEIR METHODS SHOULD BE HARMONIOUS IF THOSE AIMS ARE TO BE SUBSERVED.

He thinks the state, outside of Philadelphia, will give 75,000 for fusion. No prediction is made as to the vote in Philadelphia.

The agricultural and coal mining counties are expected to vote for Coray and Yerkes.

CLAIMS AS TO OHIO,

Both Managers Repeated Former Ones—Most Interest In Legislative Contests.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—State officers and members of the legislature are to be elected in Ohio today. There is perhaps greater interest in the result of the legislative contests than in the gubernatorial election, from the fact that the legislature to be chosen today will elect a successor to United States Senator Joseph B. Foraker.

Advices from different parts of the state last night indicated great interest in doubtful counties for members of the legislature. There are no hold-over members, all members of both branches being chosen every two years. During the campaign Senator Foraker, who is a candidate for reelection, and Senator Hanna have appeared repeatedly on the same platform and co-operated with Chairman Dick for both the state and the legislative tickets. The state administration has always been a potent factor in senatorial contests in Ohio. It is conceded that the late John Sherman would have been defeated by Foraker in the former's last contest for the senatorship, but for the assistance of William McKinley, who was then governor. In like manner Governor Hoadley supported Senator Payne, Governor Campbell supported Senator Brice, and Governor Bushnell supported Senator Foraker. When Governor Bushnell, Marcus A. Hanna for senator, opposed Marcus A. Hanna for senator, the success of the latter by one vote was an exception to the rule, and it was said the influence of the national administration then overcame the state administration. If elected today, Governor Nash will be in power, several months after the election at which members of the legislature are elected to choose a successor to Senator Hanna. It is reported that Congressman Dick, who has been chairman of the state committee for several years, is likely to be the Republican candidate for governor two years hence.

Governor Nash, Republican, then had a plurality of 49,000 over John R. McLean, Democrat. Two years ago 106,000 votes were cast for Mr. Samuel M. Jones, of Toledo, non-partisan candidate, and 16,000 votes for other minor candidates. The Jones vote of 1899 will materially affect the comparisons, especially in Cleveland and Toledo, as Jones then carried both Cuyahoga and Lucas counties. In 1899 there were 3,109 precincts in the state. This year there are 3,234 precincts. Both sides last night repeated their previous claims. The betting was at various odds on the Republicans, and mostly on the size of the plurality. The most spirited betting is on the governor results in Cuyahoga, Franklin and other doubtful counties. Cold weather continued throughout the state yesterday and last night.

FIGURES ON NEW YORK.

Low's Manager Said He Would Win by 70,000—Shepard's Manager Claimed 40,000.

New York, Nov. 5.—At midnight last night—six hours before the opening of the polls—both sides in the municipal contest were claiming the victory. The most strenuous talk came from the fusion leaders, who were more in evidence at their headquarters than were the Democrats at theirs, the latter, after the distribution of campaign funds in the afternoon, having hurried to their several election precincts. John A. Mason, of the Shepard headquarters, said he felt confident of the result and placed the Democratic candidate's majority at 40,000.

During the late afternoon Seth Low, the fusion candidate, at his own headquarters, said:

"I think things could look more rosy. This has been a most interesting campaign. The fight is now over and no matter who is elected I am sure that the city will profit by the agitation of the questions which have been the main issues of the campaign."

Robert C. Morris, chairman of the Republican campaign committee, stuck to his estimate of 70,000 for Mr. Low.

Edward M. Shepard said last evening that he had no particular statement to make, and nothing to say of the campaign beyond what he had already said, and no issues to discuss any further than he has already discussed them.

ELECTION IN KENTUCKY.

Republicans Expected to Challenge Votes in Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5.—It appeared last night that the special feature of the election in Louisville today, when amayor and full city and county and legislative tickets will be voted for, will be the attempt of the Republicans to challenge Democratic voters whom they suspect of being illegally registered. The Republican managers will have men at the polls in each precinct with a list of names of persons whom the Republicans allege are illegally registered. They declare they will challenge the vote of any person on the list who offers to vote. The Republican managers sent circular letters through the mails to the persons in question and claim a large number were returned by the letter carriers with the endorsement that the person to whom the letter was addressed was not to be found at the address given, and as this address was the address from which the person in question had registered, the Republicans regard the non-delivery of the letters as presumption of illegal registration. They threaten that if such persons offer to vote they will be arrested. The Democrats deny all charges of illegal registration and charge the Republicans with attempted intimidation. They deny that any of the voters on the Republican managers' lists can be arrested for offering to vote, and say any challenged voter can by affidavit establish his right to vote.

The weather promises to be clear and cool.

Chairman O. C. McCord, of the Democratic state campaign committee, last night gave out a statement in which he claims the Democrats will have 22 to 25 of the 38 members of the senate in the next general assembly and from 62 to 65 of the 100 members of the lower house. This general assembly will elect a United States senator to succeed William J. Deboe.

The election throughout the state includes only county officers.

Rhode Island Election.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5.—For the first time in the history of Rhode Island the elections of state, city and town governments will be held simultaneously today. Interest is chiefly centered in local issues. There is no great evidence of enthusiasm in the campaign.

Conaty Announced Change.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Right Rev. Monsignor Conaty announced that it had been found necessary to transfer to the cathedral at Baltimore the ceremony of his consecration as titular bishop of Samos. The number of prelates, clergymen and lay people who have already signified their intention to be present is so great that any chapel in the university would be taxed far beyond its power to accommodate them. The ceremony will therefore take place at Baltimore, Sunday, Nov. 24, in the cathedral church of Cardinal Gibbons, the chancellor of the university. The dinner to the visiting clergy will be given at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore.

Murder Trial Commenced.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—The trial of John Considine, charged with the murder of Chief of Police Meredith was begun in the superior court. The attorneys for the defendant renewed their motion for a continuance, which was again denied. The work of empanelling a jury was at once begun. The case of Tom Considine, jointly accused with his brother John, has not yet been set for trial.

Birds' Songs.

A French writer, Henri Coupon, says that, notwithstanding the fact of their simplicity, the songs of birds cannot be imitated with musical instruments because of the impossibility of reproducing their peculiar timbre. The notes of birds, while corresponding with our musical scale, also include vibrations occupying the intervals between our notes. The duration of birds' songs is usually very short, two or three seconds for thrushes and chaffinches, four or five seconds for blackbirds, but from two to five minutes for the lark.

unquestionably believe that they will carry several of the counties heretofore considered hopelessly Republican and this belief is largely based upon the expectation that the new arrangement of the ballot will disfranchise the greater part of the illiterate colored voters.

Republican leaders from the counties claim that they have succeeded in drilling their vote and that their loss will be very small.

Nobody has as yet been able to forecast the exact effect of the new ballot law, and each side claims that the other will suffer heaviest through its operation. Both sides appeared to be equally as confident, and only the counting of the vote can decide between the rival claimants.

The counting of the ballots this year will be much more difficult than formerly, and it is doubtful whether the complete returns will be in until Wednesday afternoon.

MASSACHUSETTS QUIET.

Boston, Nov. 5.—No eve of an election ever saw Massachusetts quieter than last night. The talk in Boston, at the clubs, hotels and political headquarters, was not on the result of the state ticket, but on the size of the Democratic majority in Boston, and from what could be deduced from it as bearing on the mayoralty fight next month. In the absence of issues it was expected that one-third of the voters would stay at home today and that Governor W. Murray Crane, the Republican candidate, would be re-elected by about 50,000 majority over Hon. Josiah Quincy, the Democratic candidate.

There seemed little prospect of any noteworthy change in the complexion of the legislature. Both political managers agreed very nearly as to the total vote, and for once as to the probable Republican majority.

It seems generally agreed that if Mr. Quincy obtains a lead over the Republican candidate for governor of 6,000 in Boston that the chances of the Democrats electing a mayor will be very good. Anything below 6,000 will give the city Republicans much hope.

Rain was predicted last night, which may effect the total vote in the state to some extent.

AVERAGE VOTE NOT EXPECTED IN NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—Weather reported about zero at Alliance, in Northwestern Nebraska, a light fall of snow in the eastern part of the state, and prospects of more, the outlook is not favorable for anything like an average vote today, even for an off year. Political managers affect to believe that with the interest awakened in the closing days of the campaign, the voters will come out regardless of the weather, but they are united in the opinion that the totals will be much below last year. Headquarters of the two campaign committees were almost deserted last night, but the rooms of both were open and will so remain until the result is definitely known.

COLORADO MANAGERS EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 5.—Both the Democratic and Republican party leaders last night expressed confidence in the result of today's election. The Democrats control several of the county offices. The sheriff, however, supports the Republican ticket, and it is asserted that he will appoint a large number of deputies for duty at the polls, while on the other hand the fire and police board, composed of Democrats, is charged with appointing a large force of special policemen to counteract the action of the sheriff. Two years ago a collision occurred between the police and deputy sheriffs, in which several men were killed and wounded, and similar trouble is expected this year if the same tactics be followed.

Rhode Island Election.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5.—For the first time in the history of Rhode Island the elections of state, city and town governments will be held simultaneously today. Interest is chiefly centered in local issues. There is no great evidence of enthusiasm in the campaign.

IT'S VOTES THAT COUNT.

It is votes that count. No matter
what your political opinions or principles may be, they count for little unless you express them at the polls.
It is a duty as well as a privilege to vote. The president of the United States shows his interest in the welfare of his country and sets an example to all citizens by going to the trouble and inconvenience of making a railroad journey to his home, simply that he may cast his ballot. The government of this great country is in the hands of the people. It is they who are the final arbiters of principles and policies. The men whom they choose, to represent them must obey the people's will or be set aside for those who will do so. If voters are indifferent and neglect their duty,
they cannot escape responsibility. If dishonest men get into office. They have no right to complain, if things go wrong, if they are not enough interested to act a citizen's part and vote for the men and measures they believe in. It is sincerely to be hoped that the result in Ohio today will show public indifference to be a minus
quantity.

THE QUIET ELECTION.

It is a quiet election. That is the story that comes from the voting precincts in this city, and the statement is probably true regarding election day,
not only in Ohio but in all the other states that are choosing officers today.
Silently the ballots are falling, but they are weighted with significance. It is a credit to our great nation, an evidence of the wisdom of the principles upon which it is governed, that momentous questions, such as the election of a governor or a president, questions affecting the welfare and interests of millions of people, are decided with decency, decorum and solemnity. The secret ballot has largely destroyed the occupation of the ward heeler, and abolished all chances for successful
electioneering at the polls. Wise laws have closed the saloons on election day, and diminished the chances for disputes and disorder. Our election laws are not yet perfect, but when the past is recalled, it is plain that we are making progress. The quiet election is an evidence of good citizenship and a thing to be fostered and encouraged.

The board of health of Newark, N.
J., has prohibited rummage sales, on
the ground that they scatter disease germs. It is possible that this may be true, but if so, the practice of giving away old clothes should be condemned on the same grounds. The plan for making partially worn articles useful is commendable, at all events, and the people who get rummage sale bargains are likely to risk the chances
without worrying.

Tens of thousands of new cars have been added to the equipment of big railroads during the past year. Yet
the growth of traffic has kept ahead of the supply. Better evidence we could not have of general prosperity than the fact that all the cars fit for use are kept busy and the cry is yet for more.

The political contest in Ohio which closes today has been watched with interest by the whole country. It would be hard to persuade outsiders, at all events, that the state election here
has no national significance.

Nebraska votes today. Mr. Bryan
has been trying hard to convince the voters that he is an issue. They are apathetic, and the Popocrats will probably be snowed under.

Tomorrow is the day when the Democrats know how it feels to be licked.
It is an experience so old to them that they seldom appear to mind it.

Uncle Sam's treasury surplus is phenomenally large. But then, this is a phenomenally business-like administration.

It is all over but the shouting, and the Republicans will attend to that tonight.

day at 10 a. m. at his home near Industry. Captain Allen was in his eighty-fourth year and a life-long resident of Pennsylvania. He was one of the old-time river captains, but had retired some years ago. The last steamer he had was the Alex Wilson, which burned. He is survived by three daughters and one son.

The funeral will be held from the late residence at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Oliver McGaffick.
Oliver McGaffick, aged 18 years, died at the home of his parents near the Klondike pottery yesterday morning, after an illness of three weeks with typhoid fever. The funeral took place this morning at 10:30 o'clock from his late home and interment was made at Esther (Pa.) cemetery.

AT THE THEATER

It was after 12:30 this morning when the initial performance at the Grand opera house, given by the Amy Lee company, came to a close. Owing to a miss in the connection of trains at Pittsburg the company did not reach East Liverpool until nearly 9 o'clock, and it was past 10 when the performance finally commenced.

The manager made a few explanatory remarks previous to the beginning, stating that it would be impossible to produce the play billed for last night, "Foggy Ferry" was substituted and in spite of the manner in which the players were handicapped, the performance was very creditable.

In order to amuse the tired and restless spectators, specialties were introduced by Fred Cohn, previous to the time the curtain arose. "Provo," the celebrated European juggler, followed Mr. Cohn and gave the most marvelous exhibition in his line ever seen here.

Amy Lee is a very clever artist and is supported by an unusually strong company.

Tonight the company will present
"The Clipper," a popular success wherever it has appeared. Election returns will be received and read from the stage.

No New Plague Cases Announced.

of the bubonic plague were officially announced yesterday, and United

A Salmon's Leap.

One of the directors of the Norwegian fisheries has been endeavoring to discover the height a salmon will leap when clearing a waterfall which obstructs its passage up stream. Masts were placed below the fall to insure accurate measurements. It is stated that a fish can leap to the height of twenty feet. When a fish failed to clear the fall at one bound, it remained in the falling water and then, with a rapid twist of the body, gave a spring and was successful.

POTTERY NEWS

The packing department at the Cartwright pottery is a very busy spot these days. During the month just ended more ware was sent out from that plant than in any other one month since the pottery has been in existence.

There are fewer potteries loafing today than for several weeks. This is taken as an indication that, aside from voting, the potters are not taking much interest in the election.

President A. S. Hughes, of the Brotherhood, left yesterday for New Castle to visit the local at that place.

John Goddard has resigned his position at Laughlin's No. 2 and accepted one as Jiggerman at Sebring.

SPECULATORS DISAPPOINTED.

They Had Expected a Rise in Prices in the Stock Market, on Monday.

New York, Nov. 5.—Speculators were disappointed of their hopes of a rise in prices in Monday's stock market, of which they fancied that the active buying movement at the closing of Saturday's market after the appearance of an unsatisfactory bank statement was a precursor. Reports
favorable progress of the negotiations over the Northern Pacific-Great Northern railway matter, but there is room for the question how far the forthcoming announcement of the result has already been discounted. The benefit of such a development as removing a threatened cause of damage to security values is self evident, but the financial project which these negotiations seek to adjust on permanent basis has lost its magical power of appeal to the speculative imagination.
The apparent decision on Saturday to adhere to an optimistic view of the money outlook was also modified Monday. The engagement of $1,500,000 in gold for shipment by today's steamer to Europe and the renewed strength of the foreign exchange market, in spite of sales against this shipment, were clear notice of a considerable requirement still unsatisfied. The light offerings of government bonds for redemption, compared with the large blocks of last Friday,
came as another disappointment and dashed the hopes of considerable relief to the money market from that source. Monday's redemptions at the sub-treasury amounted in par value
to only $159,490. The deposit at the sub-treasury of $200,000 for transfer to Chicago was another unfavorable item in the outlook. Last week's currency movement gave hope that the western demand had been satisfied,
and the current from that direction
turned again toward New York, leaving only the south to be reckoned with for the future. Monday's transfer had a disturbing effect on this view, although it is not necessarily evidence of a renewal of any considerable demand from the west. Developments in the foreign market continued to be studied with interest as
indicating the continuance of the gold movement. Individual price movements in Monday's market do not call for special mention except for the liquidation evident in Peoples Gas and sharp advances in the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg stocks, amounting to 5 1/2 points in the common and 7 points in the preferred. The market closed dull and heavy, but at some recovery from the lowest, Union Pacific rising a fraction over Saturday in the final dealings. Total railroad bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,045,000.
United States bonds were all un-

Coat For Slim Figures.

the fashionable traveling coats which were invented in London. No rubber is used in these elegant affairs, which
are made of waterproof cloth of light
or heavy weight as preferred. One feature of them is a shallow yoke on
the shoulders, and all the fullness and length of the actual garment, which is extra long, depend from this yoke.
Another feature is the yoke and sleeves being cut in one piece; this is quite a novelty in tailoring. The yoke is scalloped downward in three broad waves,
back and front. There is no seam
where an ordinary strap would be set
in, but a strap of cloth is stitched
outside from the collar across the shoulder and covering that seam and down the sleeve to the wrist, where it vanishes behind the small turnback
mousquetaire cuff.

Women's Handbags.

In women's handbags the shapes are tending to the square rather than to
the oblong which have been carried.
Opera glass bags are of suede or silk
and studded with metal points. Of the chateleine bags the different leathers are used, and the metal frames are plainer and simpler than have been used for some time. A strong bag with a horseshoe frame has a deep purse built into it for money. This is an advantage, for there is a chance of losing a small purse from the bag in taking other things out.

Eggs of Crabs and Lobsters.

Crabs and lobsters are hatched from eggs, resembling upon birth nothing so much as the animalcules shown by the microscope in a drop of ditch water.
They are as unlike the shellfish they are to become in mature life as a grub is unlike a butterfly. In the case of the crab the egg clusters are attached
beneath the animal after extrusion,
while with the lobster they become fastened to the tail, which, by its fangling motion, increases the stream of oxygenated air through and among the ova.

IT'S VOTES THAT COUNT.

It is votes that count. No matter
what your political opinions or principles may be, they count for little unless you express them at the polls.
It is a duty as well as a privilege to vote. The president of the United States shows his interest in the welfare of his country and sets an example to all citizens by going to the trouble and inconvenience of making a railroad journey to his home, simply
that he may cast his ballot. The government of this great country is in the hands of the people. It is they
who are the final arbiters of principles and policies. The men whom they chose, to represent them must obey the people's will or be set aside
for those who will do so. If voters
are indifferent and neglect their duty,
they cannot escape responsibility if dishonest men get into office. They have no right to complain, if things go wrong, if they are not enough interested to act a citizen's part and vote for the men and measures they believe
in. It is sincerely to be hoped that
the result in Ohio today will show
public indifference to be a minus
quantity.

THE QUIET ELECTION.

It is a quiet election. That is the story that comes from the voting precincts in this city, and the statement
is probably true regarding election day,
not only in Ohio but in all the other
states that are choosing officers today.
Silently the ballots are falling, but they are weighted with significance. It is a credit to our great nation, an evidence of the wisdom of the principles upon
which it is governed, that momentous questions, such as the election of a governor or a president, questions affecting the welfare and interests of millions of people, are decided with decency, decorum and solemnity. The
secret ballot has largely destroyed the occupation of the ward heeler, and
abolished all chances for successful
electioneering at the polls. Wise laws
have closed the saloons on election
day, and diminished the chances for disputes and disorder. Our election
laws are not yet perfect, but when the
past is recalled, it is plain that we are making progress. The quiet election is an evidence of good citizenship
and a thing to be fostered and encouraged.

The board of health of Newark, N.
J., has prohibited rummage sales, on
the ground that they scatter disease
germs. It is possible that this may be
away old clothes should be condemned on the same grounds. The plan for making partially worn articles useful
is commendable, at all events, and the people who get rummage sale bargains are likely to risk the chances
without worrying.

Tens of thousands of new cars have
been added to the equipment of big railroads during the past year. Yet
the growth of traffic has kept ahead of the supply. Better evidence we could not have of general prosperity than the
fact that all the cars fit for use are
kept busy and the cry is yet for more.

The political contest in Ohio which closes today has been watched with interest by the whole country. It would be hard to persuade outsiders, at all events, that the state election here
has no national significance.

Nebraska votes today. Mr. Bryan
has been trying hard to convince the voters that he is an issue. They are apathetic, and the Popocrats will probably be snowed under.

Tomorrow is the day when the Democrats know how it feels to be licked.
It is an experience so old to them that
they seldom appear to mind it.

Uncle Sam's treasury surplus is
phenomenally large. But then, this is a phenomenally business-like administration.

It is all over but the shouting, and
the Republicans will attend to that tonight.

in gold for shipment by today's
steamer to Europe and the renewed
strength of the foreign exchange market, in spite of sales against this
shipment, were clear notice of a considerable requirement still unsatisfied. The light offerings of government bonds for redemption, compared with the large blocks of last Friday,
came as another disappointment and
dashed the hopes of considerable relief to the money market from that
source. Monday's redemptions at the sub-treasury amounted in par value
to only $159,490. The deposit at the sub-treasury of $200,000 for transfer to Chicago was another unfavorable
item in the outlook. Last week's currency movement gave hope that the western demand had been satisfied,
and the current from that direction
turned again toward New York, leaving only the south to be reckoned with for the future. Monday's transfer had a disturbing effect on this view, although it is not necessarily evidence of a renewal of any considerable demand from the west. Developments in the foreign market continued to be studied with interest as
indicating the continuance of the gold movement. Individual price movements in Monday's market do not call
for special mention except for the liquidation evident in Peoples Gas and
sharp advances in the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg stocks, amounting to 5½ points in the common and 7 points in the preferred. The market closed dull and heavy, but at some recovery from the lowest, Union Pacific rising a fraction over Saturday
in the final dealings.

Railroad bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,045,000.
United States bonds were all un-

Coat For Slim Figures.

the fashionable traveling coats which were invented in London. No rubber
is used in these elegant affairs, which
are made of waterproof cloth of light
or heavy weight as preferred. One
feature of them is a shallow yoke on
the shoulders, and all the fullness and
length of the actual garment, which is
extra long, depend from this yoke.
Another feature is the yoke and sleeves
being cut in one piece; this is quite a novelty in tailoring. The yoke is scalloped downward in three broad waves,
back and front. There is no seam
where an ordinary strap would be set
in, but a strap of cloth is stitched
outside from the collar across the
shoulder and covering that seam and
down the sleeve to the wrist, where it vanishes behind the small turnback
mousquetaire cuff.

Women's Handbags.

In women's handbags the shapes are tending to the square rather than to
the oblong which have been carried.
Opera glass bags are of suede or silk
and studded with metal points. Of the chatelaine bags the different leathers are used, and the metal frames are plainer and simpler than have been used for some time. A strong bag
with a horseshoe frame has a deep purse built into it for money. This is an advantage, for there is a chance of losing a small purse from the bag in
taking other things out.

Eggs of Crabs and Lobsters.

Crabs and lobsters are hatched from
eggs, resembling upon birth nothing so
much as the animalcules shown by the
microscope in a drop of ditch water.
They are as unlike the shellfish they
are to become in mature life as a grub
is unlike a butterfly. In the case of
the crab the egg clusters are attached
beneath the animal after extrusion,
while with the lobster they become
fastened to the tail, which, by its fangling motion, increases the stream of oxygenated air through and among the ova.

ACCIDENT TO A PARTY COMING FROM A FUNERAL.

Five Women Upset From a Cab, But None Seriously Hurt.

Mrs. James McIdaine, three daughters and a daughter-in-law, of Wellsville, escaped a serious if not fatal injury last evening as they were returning home from the funeral of Miss Lizzie Culp. They were in a cab and at the rear of the hearse which was drawn by two spirited horses. Upon reaching a place near Wooster's store, in the West End, Wellsville, the horses attached to the hearse became frightened at a train coming toward them and started to backing, which caused the horses at the rear to do likewise.

The road being very dark and not permitting a clear view, the horses were allowed to back over a steep embankment upsetting the cab and throwing its occupants to the ground.

All were badly frightened and uttered loud screams. Beulah, a daughter of Mrs. McIdaine, was the only one injured, and she was not seriously hurt.

The cab was damaged but little, receiving a few scratches and having the window glass broken.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS

Awaited Council, Yet Its Members Failed to Hold a Session.

Messrs. Brannon, Aughinbaugh, Glazer, Donaldson, Whitacre and Shelby, members of the city council, assembled in their chamber last night for the purpose of holding the regular monthly meeting, but after waiting from 7 until 8:30 o'clock for the president or vice president to arrive, they decided to adjourn and have a called meeting for tomorrow night. Much disappointment was expressed by a number of citizens who were present and had bills against the city which they are desirous of having paid. Some of these bills have been standing for several months. Besides bills aggregating several hundred dollars, there was other business to be acted upon.

Contracts on bids opened last week for the improvement of streets and sewers were to have been let and an ordinance pertaining to the paving of Hill street from Third to Fifth street was to be paved.

BOYS MOVED PIPES

A Team Ran Over Them And Considerable Damage Resulted.

Among the pranks engaged in by the boys on Halloween was the moving of the 12-inch water pipes from the sides to the center of Tenth street. Some of these pipes have not yet been moved to their proper place and they were the means of causing considerable damage yesterday.

A two-horse team belonging to Rinehart Bros., of East Liverpool, attached to a light buggy, was driven down the street after dark and one of the horses stumbled over a pipe, bruising its fore leg considerably and demolishing a wheel of the buggy.

The occupants of the rig escaped without any injury beyond a bad shaking up.

CARTRIDGE IN THE FIRE

Exploded, Causing Consternation And Wounding a Small Boy in the Leg.

An explosion at the home of J. H. Jacobs, on Short street, above Thirtieth, yesterday, gave Mr. Jacobs' 8-year-old son a painful wound. Mr. Jacobs had been cleaning a revolver, and dropped some cartridges on the floor. These were accidentally swept under a grate, and were soon heated so that they went off, causing great fright and commotion.

The little boy was struck on the

COSMORAMA GIVEN

Seventy Young Ladies Took Part And the Affair Was a Big Success.

The presentation of the Cosmorama at the opera house last night was well attended. Almost every art and trade of the city was represented. There were 70 girls, all home talent, and each acquitted herself in an admirable manner. A nice musical program was also rendered.

The affair was given for the benefit of the Church of the Ascension and was considered a good success.

Bills Ordered Paid.

The sewer commission held a short session in the city engineer's office last night. The bill of Irwin Bros., amounting to over $6,000, which is due for placing in storm sewers, was ordered paid. The bills of Engineer Leith and Inspector Camden were also ordered paid. The commission adjourned to meet next Monday night when business of much importance will be taken up.

Bids to Be Opened.

Bids for the grading, draining, curbing and paving of sections of Liverpool, Clark, Lisbon, Commerce, Fourth and James streets, will be opened the latter part of the week and the first of next week. Several sealed bids have already been handed into the city clerk.

Will Wed in Pittsburgh.

Miss Rosa Sailing, who has been an employe of the Hotel Metropole for the past year, will leave this evening for Pittsburgh and tomorrow morning will marry George Thompson in the Sacred Heart church. They will make their home in Pittsburgh.

Contract for a House.

James Lockhart has given the contract for a frame dwelling to be erected on his lot, Fourteenth street. Work will be started on the foundation this week. When finished Mr. Lockhart and family will occupy the house as their permanent residence.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

BY THE COURT AGAINST THE SOUTHSIDE WATER CO.

Chester People Who Objected to the Franchise Win at New Cumberland.

The injunction proceedings of the citizens of Chester against the town and the Southside Water company came up for a hearing yesterday in the circuit court of Hancock county at New Cumberland.

George Ingram was attorney for the plaintiff, while Solicitor O. S. Marshall represented the city and Southside Land company.

After hearing the evidence the court decided that the injunction should be sustained. It seems that the franchise was not properly advertised nor posted, and on these grounds the kickers have won out in their suit.

One thing has been proven, and that is that the council of Chester may grant a company the right to put in a water works if it so desires, providing the franchise is granted in accordance with the statutes of West Virginia.

CLEVER CORNERS.

FURNITURE THAT FITS ITS PLACE AND GIVES UNIQUE EFFECTS.

Cabinets For Lamps and Other Articles—What Woods Are Appropriate—A Picturesque Brick Fireplace With Side Seats.

One may have good success in arranging the furnishings of a room until the corners are reached; then arises perplexity. Ready to hand furniture evidently was not designed to go in corners of rooms, so if one is to have anything to fit artistically into them it must of necessity be made to fit the place. Suggestions along this line with the accompanying drawings are made by a writer in The Household. One sketch, the corner fireplace, with side seats, presupposes a house in process of construction. The other can be fitted to corners in houses already occupied.

Corner devices are arranged for the attractive display of pretty ornaments, a lamp, a jardiniere or other article. The one illustrated has a gracefully turned opening into which is set a glass globe of goldfish. Another has a closet whose hinged door is a framed picture, a unique device that is out of the common. The curtained space below this can be utilized for books or for other purposes, as desired.

A design for a corner writing desk combines the practical with the artistic. A hinged "leaf" is supported by side strips of brass that slide up behind the board front when the desk is closed. There is space below for a closet and small, triangular closets above, with an open space, letter shelves and a small drawer near at hand. Within an oval opening at the top there is an excellent chance to display a handsome statuette or other ornament.

These corner furnishings can be built and set up within a room by any skillful carpenter or cabinet maker. To fit them evenly into a corner it will be necessary to cut the baseboards at a proper bevel, removing the corner pieces. Then the affair will fit snugly up against the walls and appear to have grown there.

If the woodwork of the room is painted, these corner devices may be made of pine or white wood and painted to match the other woodwork or they may be treated as articles of furniture merely and so be made of some handsome wood, such as oak, cherry or redwood, and left in their natural color. This latter treatment is especially desirable in a corner device that does not extend from floor to ceiling.

The corner fireplace design requires a chimney built at the intersection of three or, it may be, four rooms. The brickwork extends out into the walls much farther than appears in the cut, the brickwork being smoothly plastered over and the wall paper being brought to the edge of the fireplace, as shown. It may be necessary in a house where space is circumscribed to cut off some of the corner space above the mantel to secure accommodations for the flue. The woodwork of the seats should be made to follow the style of the woodwork of the room. If this be a library and has much oak furniture, the seats may well be made of oak, the ends and the curved front being of the quartered variety.

Fashions and Fancies.

Very trig are the soft fancy hats with crowns knocked in, another variety of the smart shirt waist hat so popular.

Ultra fashionable people are certainly adopting low hair dressing in the evening.

Down her back long floating auburn curls. The least of which set ten poets raving.

Is likely to repeat itself, and we may expect the return of the catogan and the one or two curls on the shoulder.

Toile twisted round the head and tied in a dainty bow set well forward in front is one of the fancies.

Soft, frilled capes of chiffon look charming.

TO HONOR JEFFERSON

MONUMENT OF THE PRESIDENT TO BE AN EXPOSITION EXHIBIT.

St. Louis Will Do Honor to the Man Who Made the Louisiana Purchase. Interesting Story of Monticello and Its Owner's Tombstone.

St. Louis' great Louisiana Purchase Centennial exposition is still two years off, but preparations are already being made to have it excel or at any rate equal the Pan-American. The federal government has formally asked foreign countries and the states to send exhibits, and all parts of the Union and of the earth will contribute of their best and most interesting.

Naturally, as the coming exposition is primarily of a historical character, the growth and development of the United States, especially of that portion of the country included in the Louisiana purchase, will be featured. Much honor will be paid to Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States, to whose wisdom and foresight we owe the great territory. Among the most interesting sights of the exposition will be the Jefferson monument, which will form the center of the Missouri university exhibit. This is the original monument, designed by the president himself, that stood until 1883 at Monticello, his home in Virginia.

The monument is a simple obelisk of granite, eight feet in height, without the slightest attempt at adornment. It formerly bore the celebrated inscription, written by Jefferson, "Here Was Buried Thomas Jefferson, Author of the Declaration of Independence, of the Statute of Virginia For Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia." This inscription, together with a rough ink sketch of the monument, was found among Jefferson's papers after his death. According to his desire, the shaft was erected over his grave, the latter being on the "little mount" that gives its name to the beautiful estate.

Jefferson, it will be recalled, died almost insolvent. Monticello passed into the hands of strangers, and the monument was neglected. It suffered greatly at the hands of vandal relic hunters and is chipped and scarred. In 1882 congress appropriated $10,000 for a suitable memorial to the great president, and in 1883 this was raised. The residuary legatees of Monticello's first owner, the Misses Randolph, then presented the original shaft to the University of Missouri through Dr. S. S. Laws, president of the institution, and Dr. Fleet, its professor of Greek. Since then it has graced the campus of the University of Columbia.

On Jan. 9, 1892, the university buildings were destroyed by fire, and the marble tablet bearing the inscription, which formerly was attached to and formed part of the granite obelisk, was badly broken. It now rests for safe keeping under glass in the fireproof vault of the proctor of the university.

Besides this tablet the only lettering on the obelisk is the sunken figures that tell the dates of the birth and death of Jefferson. The shaft proper is 5½ feet high and rests upon a base 3 feet square. The tablet is 2 feet by 18 inches in size and is of highly polished marble. Close by the Jefferson monument, in a beautiful corner of the college campus, is the original stone from the tomb of David Barton, first United States senator from Missouri. This has been replaced by a handsomer shaft, erected at state expense.

An interesting story is told of the original site of the old Jefferson monument. In 1763, sixty-three years before his death, he read law with an intimate friend of his youth, Dabney Carr. While studying one day on the "little mount" these two devoted friends registered a mutual vow that they would both be buried on that beautiful spot, which commands one of the finest views in Virginia. Their graves were to be under a magnificent oak that shadows the summit of the hill. Carr, who was married to the sister of Thomas Jefferson, died a few years later, leaving to the care of his brother-in-law his family.

The Laughter of Savages.

The general impression one derives from the accounts given is certainly that savage tribes are not victims of a sullen despair, but, on the contrary, have a large and abundant mirth. Their laughter and other signs of good spirits are of the most energetic kind. Darwin and a number of travelers assure us on this point. The Tasmanians, Ling Roth tells us, accompanied their loud bursts of laughter with movements of the hands to the head and quick tapping movements of the feet. The loud, deep chested character of the men's laughter is sometimes specially noted. A recent visitor to central Africa regrets that under European influence the deep chested, hearty laughter of the men is being replaced by what is known as the "mission giggle" in the younger folk.—International Monthly.

An Odd Nest.

A correspondent of Cassell's Magazine records a curious freak on the part of some wasps in Gloucester, England.

The wasps were noticed going in and out of a lock which secured a workshop door. The owner of the shop had the lock removed to satisfy his curiosity about the doings of the busy workers. He found a nest inside. The cells were made of mud and were full of larvae. There were several dead wasps inside the lock.

As the lock was in almost daily use the wasps could not have had a very peaceful home.

WELLSVILLE

ACCIDENT TO A PARTY COMING FROM A FUNERAL.

Five Women Upset From a Cab, But None Seriously Hurt.

Mrs. James McIlidaine, three daughters and a daughter-in-law, of Wellsville, escaped a serious if not fatal injury last evening as they were returning home from the funeral of Miss Lizzie Culp. They were in a cab and at the rear of the hearse which was drawn by two spirited horses. Upon reaching a place near Wooster's store, in the West End, Wellsville, the horses attached to the hearse became frightened at a train coming toward them and started to backing, which caused the horses at the rear to do likewise.

The road being very dark and not permitting a clear view, the horses were allowed to back over a steep embankment upsetting the cab and throwing its occupants to the ground.

All were badly frightened and uttered loud screams. Beulah, a daughter of Mrs. McIlidaine, was the only one injured, and she was not seriously hurt.

The cab was damaged but little, receiving a few scratches and having the window glass broken.

Awaited Council, Yet Its Members Failed to Hold a Session.

Messrs. Brannon, Aughinbaugh, Glazer, Donaldson, Whitacre and Shelby, members of the city council, assembled in their chamber last night for the purpose of holding the regular monthly meeting, but after waiting from 7 until 8:30 o'clock for the president or vice president to arrive, they decided to adjourn and have a called meeting for tomorrow night. Much disappointment was expressed by a number of citizens who were present and had bills against the city which they are desirous of having paid. Some of these bills have been standing for several months. Besides bills aggregating several hundred dollars, there was other business to be acted upon.

Contracts on bids opened last week for the improvement of streets and sewers were to have been let and an ordinance pertaining to the paving of Hill street from Third to Fifth street was to be paved.

BOYS MOVED PIPES

A Team Ran Over Them And Considerable Damage Resulted.

Among the pranks engaged in by the boys on Halloween was the moving of the 12-inch water pipes from the sides to the center of Tenth street. Some of these pipes have not yet been moved to their proper place and they were the means of causing considerable damage yesterday.

A two-horse team belonging to Rinehart Bros., of East Liverpool, attached to a light buggy, was driven down the street after dark and one of the horses stumbled over a pipe, bruising its fore leg considerably and demolishing a wheel of the buggy.

The occupants of the rig escaped without any injury beyond a bad shaking up.

Exploded, Causing Consternation And Wounding a Small Boy in the Leg.

An explosion at the home of J. H. Jacobs, on Short street, above Thirtieth, yesterday, gave Mr. Jacobs' 8-year-old son a painful wound. Mr. Jacobs had been cleaning a revolver, and dropped some cartridges on the floor. These were accidentally swept under a grate, and were soon heated so that they went off, causing great fright and commotion.

The little boy was struck on the

COSMORAMA GIVEN

Seventy Young Ladies Took Part And the Affair Was a Big Success.

The presentation of the Cosmorama at the opera house last night was well attended. Almost every art and trade of the city was represented. There were 70 girls, all home talent, and each acquitted herself in an admirable manner. A nice musical program was also rendered.

The affair was given for the benefit of the Church of the Ascension and was considered a good success.

Bills Ordered Paid.

The sewer commission held a short session in the city engineer's office last night. The bill of Irwin Bros., amounting to over $6,000, which is due for placing in storm sewers, was ordered paid. The bills of Engineer Leith and Inspector Camden were also ordered paid. The commission adjourned to meet next Monday night when business of much importance will be taken up.

Bids to Be Opened.

Bids for the grading, draining, curbing and paving of sections of Liverpool, Clark, Lisbon, Commerce, Fourth and James streets, will be opened the latter part of the week and the first of next week. Several sealed bids have already been handed into the city clerk.

Will Wed in Pittsburgh.

Miss Rosa Salling, who has been an employe of the Hotel Metropole for the past year, will leave this evening for Pittsburgh and tomorrow morning will marry George Thompson in the Sacred Heart church. They will make their home in Pittsburgh.

Contract for a House.

James Lockhart has given the contract for a frame dwelling to be erected on his lot, Fourteenth street. Work will be started on the foundation this week. When finished Mr. Lockhart and family will occupy the house as their permanent residence.

SOUTH SIDE

BY THE COURT AGAINST THE SOUTHSIDE WATER CO.

Chester People Who Objected to the Franchise Win at New Cumberland.

The injunction proceedings of the citizens of Chester against the town and the Southside Water company came up for a hearing yesterday in the circuit court of Hancock county at New Cumberland.

George Ingram was attorney for the plaintiff, while Solicitor O. S. Marshall represented the city and Southside Land company.

After hearing the evidence the court decided that the injunction should be sustained. It seems that the franchise was not properly advertised nor posted, and on these grounds the kickers have won out in their suit.

One thing has been proven, and that is that the council of Chester may grant a company the right to put in a water works if it so desires, providing the franchise is granted in accordance with the statutes of West Virginia.

CLEVER CORNERS.

Cabinets For Lamps and Other Articles—What Woods Are Appropriate—A Picturesque Brick Fireplace With Side Seats.

One may have good success in arranging the furnishings of a room until the corners are reached; then arises perplexity. Ready to hand furniture evidently was not designed to go in corners of rooms, so if one is to have anything to fit artistically into them it must of necessity be made to fit the place. Suggestions along this line with the accompanying drawings are made by a writer in The Household. One sketch, the corner fireplace, with side seats, presupposes a house in process of construction. The other can be fitted to corners in houses already occupied.

Corner devices are arranged for the attractive display of pretty ornaments, a lamp, a jardiniere or other article. The one illustrated has a gracefully turned opening into which is set a glass globe of goldfish. Another has a closet whose hinged door is a framed picture, a unique device that is out of the common. The curtained space below this can be utilized for books or for other purposes, as desired.

A design for a corner writing desk combines the practical with the artistic. A hinged "leaf" is supported by side strips of brass that slide up behind the board front when the desk is closed. There is space below for a closet and small, triangular closets above, with an open space, letter shelves and a small drawer near at hand. Within an oval opening at the top there is an excellent chance to display a handsome statuette or other ornament.

These corner furnishings can be built and set up within a room by any skillful carpenter or cabinet maker. To fit them evenly into a corner it will be necessary to cut the baseboards at a proper bevel, removing the corner pieces. Then the affair will fit snugly up against the walls and appear to have grown there.

If the woodwork of the room is painted, these corner devices may be made of pine or white wood and painted to match the other woodwork or they may be treated as articles of furniture merely and so be made of some handsome wood, such as oak, cherry or redwood, and left in their natural color. This latter treatment is especially desirable in a corner device that does not extend from floor to ceiling.

The corner fireplace design requires a chimney built at the intersection of three or, it may be, four rooms. The brickwork extends out into the walls much farther than appears in the cut, the brickwork being smoothly plastered over and the wall paper being brought to the edge of the fireplace, as shown. It may be necessary in a house where space is circumscribed to cut off some of the corner space above the mantel to secure accommodations for the flue. The woodwork of the seats should be made to follow the style of the woodwork of the room. If this be a library and has much oak furniture, the seats may well be made of oak, the ends and the curved front being of the quartered variety.

Fashions and Fancies.

Very trig are the soft fancy hats with crowns knocked in, another variety of the smart shirt waist hat so popular.

Ultra fashionable people are certainly adopting low hair dressing in the evening.

Down her back long floating auburn curls, the least of which set ten poets raving, is likely to repeat itself, and we may expect the return of the catogan and the one or two curls on the shoulder.

Tulle twisted round the head and tied in a dainty bow set well forward in front is one of the fancies. Soft, frilled capes of chiffon look charming.

The printed flowered muslins are fascinating this season. They come in pretty, graceful designs and soft colorings, and they are quaintly trimmed with little old fashioned ruffles corded at the top and edged with lace.

A Brooklyn woman keeps a school of bird music in which she teaches untrained canaries to sing.

TO HONOR JEFFERSON

MONUMENT OF THE PRESIDENT TO BE AN EXPOSITION EXHIBIT.

St. Louis Will Do Honor to the Man Who Made the Louisiana Purchase, Interesting Story of Monticello and Its Owner's Tombstone.

St. Louis' great Louisiana Purchase Centennial exposition is still two years off, but preparations are already being made to have it excel or at any rate equal the Pan-American. The federal government has formally asked foreign countries and the states to send exhibits, and all parts of the Union and of the earth will contribute of their best and most interesting.

Naturally, as the coming exposition is primarily of a historical character, the growth and development of the United States, especially of that portion of the country included in the Louisiana purchase, will be featured. Much honor will be paid to Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States, to whose wisdom and foresight we owe the great territory. Among the most interesting sights of the exposition will be the Jefferson monument, which will form the center of the Missouri university exhibit. This is the original monument, designed by the president himself, that stood until 1883 at Monticello, his home in Virginia.

The monument is a simple obelisk of granite, eight feet in height, without the slightest attempt at adornment. It formerly bore the celebrated inscription, written by Jefferson, "Here Was Buried Thomas Jefferson, Author of the Declaration of Independence, of the Statute of Virginia For Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia." This inscription, together with a rough ink sketch of the monument, was found among Jefferson's papers after his death. According to his desire, the shaft was erected over his grave, the latter being on the "little mount" that gives its name to the beautiful estate.

Jefferson, it will be recalled, died almost insolvent. Monticello passed into the hands of strangers, and the monument was neglected. It suffered greatly at the hands of vandal relic hunters and is chipped and scarred. In 1882 congress appropriated $10,000 for a suitable memorial to the great president, and in 1883 this was raised. The residuary legatees of Monticello's first owner, the Misses Randolph, then presented the original shaft to the University of Missouri through Dr. S. S. Laws, president of the institution, and Dr. Fleet, its professor of Greek. Since then it has graced the campus of the University of Columbia.

On Jan. 9, 1882, the university buildings were destroyed by fire, and the marble tablet bearing the inscription, which formerly was attached to and formed part of the granite obelisk, was badly broken. It now rests for safe keeping under glass in the fireproof vault of the proctor of the university.

An interesting story is told of the original site of the old Jefferson monument. In 1763, sixty-three years before his death, he read law with an intimate friend of his youth, Dabney Carr. While studying one day on the "little mount" these two devoted friends registered a mutual vow that they would both be buried on that beautiful spot, which commands one of the finest views in Virginia. Their graves were to be under a magnificent oak that shadows the summit of the hill. Carr, who was married to the sister of Thomas Jefferson, died a few years later, leaving to the care of his brother-in-law his family.

The Laughter of Savages.

The general impression one derives from the accounts given is certainly that savage tribes are not victims of a sullen despair, but, on the contrary, have a large and abundant mirth. Their laughter and other signs of good spirits are of the most energetic kind. Darwin and a number of travelers assure us on this point. The Tasmanians, Ling Roth tells us, accompanied their loud bursts of laughter with movements of the hands to the head and quick tapping movements of the feet. The loud, deep chested character of the men's laughter is sometimes specially noted. A recent visitor to central Africa regrets that under European influence the deep chested, hearty laughter of the men is being replaced by what is known as the "mission giggle" in the younger folk.—International Monthly.

An Odd Nest.

The wasps were noticed going in and out of a lock which secured a workshop door. The owner of the shop had the lock removed to satisfy his curiosity about the doings of the busy workers. He found a nest inside. The cells were made of mud and were full of larvae. There were several dead wasps inside the lock.

"What is that?"
"Marry the Latiolais girl?"
"What bearing has that upon your staying or going?"
"This—I have made up my mind that Laure must go with me."
"As your wife?" inquired Evariste, aroused.
"Not at first; later, perhaps," replied Quillebert. "But she knows too much about my business to be left here."
"True enough," Evariste said. "But what has my marriage to do with that?"
"Everything," Quillebert said emphatically. "I am not a fool. I can see my nose at midday without a candle. She will not budge an inch while you remain unmarried. I know her thoroughly. She is as set as the rock of Tenerife. When you marry, I can control her, not before. She believes she can prevent you, but she cannot. This matter must not longer be put off. It must be brought to a finish now."

"Constant! You will not do that!"

"I am not quite prepared"—Evariste began.

"As well prepared as you would be a year hence," Quillebert interrupted emphatically. "Take care! This is vital to me. I have no time to be wasted by your chicken heartedness or to devote to arguments. Few words are needed. If you will pledge me to marry Estelle Latiolais before the expiration of 60 days, I will give you the papers of old Leonidas now and pay you the $8,000 the day after the marriage. If you fail, I will go to France alone, leaving Laure Leneau here with a full history of the photographic will. Quillebert's face grew hard and cruel. His enunciation of this threat was like the click of the cocking of a rifle.

"I certainly will," Quillebert said savagely.

The torture inflicted upon him by this menace and the prospect it opened before him appeared to deprive Evariste of the power of speech. With terror depicted in his face he stared at his tormentor until the latter stirred him, saying:

"Well?"
"I accept your proposition," he said faintly. "Within 60 days Estelle Latiolais shall be my wife."
"Hone!" grunted Quillebert. "Set about it at once."

"Good!" Quillebert rose. Reaching the door, he stopped and said: "An odd thing has occurred. My little pistol, the one I kept under my pillow at night and in the armory during the day, has disappeared."

"Whom do you suspect?" Evariste asked, forcing a show of interest.

"I do not suspect any one yet. Laure is the only other person who knew where the weapon was. But I will discover the thief," said Quillebert confidently, and, mounting his horse, he rode away.

Evariste returned to his room to brood over the particulars of this most disturbing interview. The importance which Laure had assumed as a factor in his life startled him as he now realized it. The mention of her name in connection with the missing pistol caused him an uneasiness, too, he could not shake off. Her passion, protestations, warnings and prophecies presented her to his harassed thoughts as an impediment to his purpose, inexorable and mysterious.

The self denials imposed on the people by the conditions of civil war had escaped through means of the contraband trade so successfully prosecuted by the genius of Quillebert. From France he stocked his larder and outfit; from Paris he supplied his wardrobe. Hence, when, after a night of feverish unrest, he set out in quest of his bride he was arrayed, primmed and perfumed as became a gallant of the boulevards, offensively incongruous to the neighbors clad in homespun, the broken fences and grass grown fields he passed on the dusty bayou road.

There was unrest, too, at the Latiolais home. Age, dissipation, hypochondria and remorse were hastening the grandfather to wreck and miserable death. Night after night he walked his room with shaking step, sleepless and bemoaning his impotence to recoup his own and Estelle's estates or conceal the unworthy methods by which he had incurred them to gratify his low appetites. Her written authority to mortgage for maintenance, unquestioningly conferred on his advice, he had meekly used to protect his gambling debts and bills for rum and morphine, leaving the legitimate accounts unliquidated, unsecured and bearing ruinous interest. His perfidy would become known to Estelle and the world at his death, now fast approaching; his memory would be execrated by all honest men; his grandchild would inherit only poverty and his disgrace. The sole escape lay in her preceding him to the grave; his only hope was to die before the storm broke. These goading, unrelenting thoughts banished sleep; distress gave free current to his tears, whether alone or in the presence of Estelle; the coma of opium was his refuge.

When Odette announced Evariste Estelle, tenderly ministering to the venerable sufferer, was on the point of leading him to stroll in the garden among flowers she herself had planted, nursed and reared into loveliness. At the name of the visitor a tremor passed over the wasted frame of the old man, but he looked beseechingly at his companion and said:

"Go to him, child, and receive him pleasantly. He has been our very solicitous friend. Do not keep him waiting. Odette will assist me into the house when I become fatigued."

She left him with Odette and proceeded to her parlor. She was gowned in simple white. A deep collar about her neck was clasped by a medallion portrait of her mother in miniature. The pale brow deepened the hue of her soft brown hair. The eyes of dark hazel, large and liquid, the small mouth of perfect curves and the finely molded chin gave a beauty to her face which was eloquent of affection, truth and patience—the beauty which subdues by its gentleness, compels by its sweetness, the beauty which refines prosperity and hallows affliction.

"It is kind of you to call, my friend, for our house is sadly in need of cheer," she said, greeting Evariste.

"No misfortune has come to you, I hope," he replied, seeking, yet dreading, a suggestion for the declaration he was resolved to make. "You have not been ill?"

"No; I must not fall sick, for there would then be no one to nurse my poor grandfather."

"Is he not as usual?"

"Much worse than usual. I am sorely distressed over his state. He is rapidly failing. Sleep and appetite are denied him. He is grieving over some imaginary or real trouble which he keeps secret to himself. Oh, why could not this good old gentleman be rescued from that wicked man Quillebert?"

"Mademoiselle, I labored for that sincerely."

"I believe you; indeed, I believe you. It was not to complain of you that I

"Be my wife," he exclaimed hotly. spoke. It was only to bewail the hard fate. I fear it is now too late."

"How too late?" asked Evariste in a tone of concern.

"I do not think my grandfather will live through the summer. I am sure he will not unless he can be relieved of the mental anxiety that is so fast consuming his strength." Estelle's eyes began to well over as she made this gloomy prediction.

"Mademoiselle, what would you do, what would you give to cure M. Latiolais and make him what he was ten years ago?" Evariste's nervousness became apparent as he thus suddenly approached the crisis.

"Ah, le bon Dieu!" she exclaimed. "I am very weak, and I am very poor, but there is no task I would not undertake, nothing of mine I would not give! But, alas, I am powerless to cure or restore him."

"No, you are not powerless. You have the cure."

"I?" she said, astonished. "Surely you are jesting, monsieur. But it is a strange subject for merriment."

"Mademoiselle, it is a subject upon which I could not jest if I would," Evariste protested, with warmth. "I repeat seriously that you possess your grandfather's cure. Will you give him the benefit of it?"

"I love my grandfather so that I would willingly die to save him. But what is this cure, monsieur? How can I restore him? Your words mystify me."

"And yet they are simple and easily understood," replied Evariste. "Listen, mademoiselle. I perfectly comprehend the troubles which oppress M. Latiolais and threaten his health. He has not the talent for business and has not exercised due care in his affairs. The consequence is that he now finds himself indebted beyond his means of payment and fears he has involved your interests also. Having the sensitiveness of a gentleman, this condition preys upon his mind. His long addiction to drink and drugs has unfitted him to bear the strain. He is shortening his life by silent, corroding grief."

"If you have correctly stated the case, monsieur, how can I save the poor dear sufferer?" Estelle asked, terrified.

"Will you, if you can?" demanded Evariste.

"You need not ask that question," she replied.

"Then it rests with you, Estelle. Be my wife and redeem your grandfather," said he, fiercely springing the trap.

"Evariste!" she whispered, starting to her feet as if in fright.

He also rose and advanced toward her, but was checked by a repelling gesture.

"Yes, be my wife," he exclaimed hotly. "Estelle, it has been the dream of my life from boyhood. I have loved you with every breath I drew since long ago we met at Father Grhe's table on the day of the races. My love and hope of winning you have sustained me through trials, indignities and injustices. I remained a civilian throughout the war and endured the contempt which is the coward's lot to be near you and protect you. I loved you in silence, for I was poor. But now, Estelle, I have ample fortune. Peace has come; life begins. Be my wife, and my whole existence shall be devoted to your happiness. Share my fortune; be mistress of my estate as well as of my heart. Give me the husband's right to guard your interests, and my joy will be to put away the burdens from your inheritance, lift the crushing load from your grandfather's shoulders and give to his declining years the boon of calm and ease. We will take him to our home, and I will vie with you in affectionate, veneration care for his tranquillity and comfort. I can control the debts that bear him down, and I can command Quillebert. Consent, Estelle, and I promise that within a month after our wedding day the debts shall pass into your hands and Quillebert shall pass to France. Do not refuse, Estelle," he cried frantically, observing she was about to speak. "Take time to reflect. Answer me another day."

"I need no time for reflection. My answer is ready now and must be delivered. What you ask can never be. She spoke gently and firmly, but her voice was not wholly free of resentment.

"Not to save your grandfather from poverty and disgrace?" he said, his face darkening with anger and malice. She staggered, but answered resolutely:

"No!"

"And yet you said you would die to give him peace and health."

"And so I would, but I did not say I would commit suicide."

"What do you mean?"

"I prefer not to explain."

He eyed her suspiciously.

"You have not taken a nun's vows?"

"I wished to do so, but Father Grhe would not give his sanction. He instructed me that I would best serve God through my duty to my grandfather."

"And by dooming him to shameful beggary you perform that duty?" he sneered.

"The duty must be a sinless one. Rather than profit by a sinful service my grandfather would cheerfully lay his hand in mine and walk forth from this house forever homeless, beg from door to door and sleep under the trees."

So serene and self trusting did she appear as she spoke and looked away to the green forest that Evariste felt himself dwindle before her.

"Have I asked of you a sinful deed?" he demanded.

"Yes. A loveless wife is a sinning woman. I could not give you my love with my hand. I have no love to give."

"You were not always loveless. Why now?"

"My love is dead," she moaned piteously, no longer able to restrain her emotion, and hid her face against the mantel.

"I understand," he said tauntingly, "and lies buried under the apple trees in Kentucky."

She turned upon him a withering look of mingled contempt and indignation. "Wretched man," she cried, "how can you speak such ruffian words of the noble dead? Can you not see him hide his head from the shades of his comrade heroes, humiliated by the perfidy of the brother whom his love and generosity strove in vain to make a gentleman? Oh, unhappy ingrate, spare from your desecrating hatred that sacred spot where sleeps your benefactor, whose narrow bed beneath

"Then you do not deny that your love lies dead in that same hallowed grave?" persisted Evariste, writhing under the denunciation. "And you seek to play against me Horace dead as you did Horace living."

"Monsieur," she cried, do you dare?"

"Yes," he interrupted insolently, "I dare anything now. You have made me desperate. I decline to accept this answer as final. I will come this day next week for another. Dare! Yes, I will dare to come again, and I will dare meanwhile to make such provision that you will not then dare say me no again."

"Do not return."

"I will."

"It will be useless."

"We shall see."

"I will not receive you."

"You shall."

Blind with rage, he dashed furiously up the bayou road and across the swamp to Dede's cabaret to inform waiting Quillebert of his rebuff.

Estelle flew to her priedieu and fell upon her knees. In anguish she prayed for strength to bear her through the approaching ordeal. Rising, she stood a moment gazing into the sky of cloudless blue and murmured softly:

"Rest, my Horace. My love shall wake only with you. Remember the vow I made when they told me you were dead. That vow shall not be broken."

CHAPTER XVIII.

DURESS.

DESPITE the protest and entreaty of Estelle the feeble invalid responded to the summons of Quillebert to a meeting at the old cabaret. He dared not disobey, though the journey was made with pain of body and mental misgiving. He had vaguely connected Evariste's last visit to his house with impending catastrophe, for Estelle had since been more depressed, more reticent and even more tenderly solicitous in her watchfulness over him, but he feared to question and was left in ignorance of what had occurred. At the cabaret he was ushered by Dede into the familiar rear room, where Quillebert and Evariste awaited him at the baize covered table. Evariste was smoking a fragrant Cuban cigar. One glass and a bottle were before Quillebert, who was doggedly drunk. Latiolais was received with ominous coldness. No glass was offered him. He lacked courage to ask for one.

"Leonidas, settling day has come," said Quillebert, with brutal abruptness, terminating an embarrassing silence.

"What? How, Constant?" Latiolais asked, shaking as if with an ague.

"What? Your indebtedness to me. How? In money. Pay me the money."

"Now?"

"Yes, now. It is past due. You have had more time than I ever asked of a creditor."

"But the notice is so short, Constant."

"So is my time, Leonidas."

"My debt is large."

"I know that, to my sorrow."

"I have not the money."

"Get it."

"Within what time?"

"Thirty days."

"Impossible."

"Then the property must answer."

"Oh, Constant, my friend, spare me!" groaned the unhappy man.

"Leonidas, my very dear friend, I have not time. My other dear friends, Americans and Christians, are pressing upon me inducements to return to France which really I cannot resist. We are getting old, you and I. Just think of it, I am older than you! I may not live to come back to this paradise, and therefore my affairs here must be closed up just as if I meant not to come back. I really have not the time to spare you, Leonidas." Quillebert appeared to enjoy the pains of his victim as much as he did the rum, which he quaffed at shortening intervals, his insolence increasing with each potation.

"Are you serious, Constant, and will not pity for my grandchild move you?"

"I never was more serious in my life, and nothing but death can move me. At present, Leonidas, I enjoy perfect health."

"My God! My God! My poor Estelle must suffer want and hide her head in shame for my disgrace. And there is no escape, no hope!" The old man's head was lowered, and his shaking frame rocked to and fro.

"There is hope, there is escape," in emphatic tone said Evariste, whose silent presence had been forgotten by Latiolais in his distress.

"Where? By what means?" cried the latter, looking up with wonder and wistfulness in his haggard face.

"Estelle can save you," Evariste replied.

"Be calm, monsieur, and I will make my meaning plain to you." Evariste exemplified his advice, being as unperturbed in manner and free from excitement in speech as if he were discussing persons and affairs remote from his own interest. "In the course of business with Quillebert I have become possessed of a portion of your obligations—namely, some of your notes, your granddaughter's procuration to you to contract debts for the maintenance of her property and authorization to cancel her mortgage against you so as to give first rank to the security I hold. M. Quillebert has determined to leave this country very soon, and I appreciate the necessity for haste. There must be mutual accountings between him and me to adjust finally our joint ventures during the past four years, some of which have been quite heavy. As your notes and their securities held by us two are in the main concurrent, if he forecloses I shall be compelled to do likewise. I understand, of course, you have not the means of payment. The sale or surrender of your property and your granddaughter's must follow pressure. Now, I will purchase all your obligations which M. Quillebert has and deliver them, together with those which are in my hands, to you, making you a debtless, solvent man and reinstating your granddaughter's estate on one condition."

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

"What is that?"

"Marry the Latiolais girl."

"What bearing has that upon your staying or going?"

"This—I have made up my mind that Laure must go with me."

"As your wife?" inquired Evariste, aroused.

"Not at first; later, perhaps," replied Quillebert. "But she knows too much about my business to be left here."

"True enough," Evariste said. "But what has my marriage to do with that?"

"Everything," Quillebert said emphatically. "I am not a fool. I can see my nose at midday without a candle. She will not budge an inch while you remain unmarried. I know her thoroughly. She is as set as the rock of Tenerife. When you marry, I can control her, not before. She believes she can prevent you, but she cannot. This matter must not longer be put off. It must be brought to a final, now."

"Constant! You will not do that!"

"I am not quite prepared"—Evariste began.

"As well prepared as you would be a year hence," Quillebert interrupted impatiently. "Take care! This is vital to me. I have no time to be wasted by your chicken heartedness or to devote to arguments. Few words are needed. If you will pledge me to marry Estelle Latiolais before the expiration of 60 days, I will give you the papers of old Leonidas now and pay you the $8,000 the day after the marriage. If you fail, I will go to France alone, leaving Laure Lunau here with a full history of the olographic will." Quillebert's face grew hard and cruel. His enunciation of this threat was like the click of the cocking of a rifle.

"God above us, Constant!" exclaimed Evariste, trembling violently. "You will not do that?"

"I certainly will," Quillebert said savagely.

"She will not be believed. The original was destroyed," said Evariste in desperation.

"Perhaps. Nevertheless, she could make great use of the story," Quillebert replied, with a vicious nod.

The torture inflicted upon him by this menace and the prospect it opened before him appeared to deprive Evariste of the power of speech. With terror depicted in his face he stared at his tormentor until the latter stirred him, saying:

"Well?"

"I accept your proposition," he said faintly. "Within 60 days Estelle Latiolais shall be my wife."

"Hone!" grunted Quillebert. "Set about it at once."

"I will begin tomorrow."

"Good!" Quillebert rose. Reaching the door, he stopped and said: "An odd thing has occurred. My little pistol, the one I kept under my pillow at night and in the armory during the day, has disappeared."

"Whom do you suspect?" Evariste asked, forcing a show of interest.

"I do not suspect any one yet. Laure is the only other person who knew where the weapon was. But I will discover the thief," said Quillebert confidently, and, mounting his horse, he rode away.

Evariste returned to his room to brood over the particulars of this most disturbing interview. The importance which Laure had assumed as a factor in his life startled him as he now realized it. The mention of her name in connection with the missing pistol caused him an uneasiness, too, he could not shake off. Her passion, protestations, warnings and prophecies presented her to his harassed thoughts as an impediment to his purpose, inexorable and mysterious.

The self denials imposed on the people by the conditions of civil war he had escaped through means of the contraband trade so successfully prosecuted by the genius of Quillebert. From France he stocked his larder and outfitted; from Paris he supplied his wardrobe. Hence, when, after a night of feverish unrest, he set out in quest of his bride he was arrayed, primmed and perfumed as became a gallant of the boulevards, offensively incongruous to the neighbors clad in homespun, the broken fences and grass grown fields he passed on the dusty bayou road.

There was unrest, too, at the Latiolais home. Age, dissipation, hypochondria and remorse were hastening the grandfather to wreck and miserable death. Night after night he walked his room with shaking step, sleepless and bemoaning his impotence to recoup his own and Estelle's estates or conceal the unworthy methods by which he had incurred them to gratify his low appetites. Her written authority to mortgage for maintenance, unquestioningly conferred on his advice, he had meekly used to protect his gambling debts and bills for rum and morphine, leaving the legitimate accounts unliquidated, unsecured and bearing ruinous interest. His perfidy would become known to Estelle and the world at his death, now fast approaching; his memory would be execrated by all honest men; his grandchild would inherit only poverty and his disgrace. The sole escape lay in her preceding him to the grave; his only hope was to die before the storm broke. These gauding, unrelenting thoughts banished sleep; distress gave free current to his tears, whether alone or in the presence of Estelle; the coma of opium was his refuge.

When Odette announced Evariste Estelle, tenderly ministering to the venerable sufferer, was on the point of leading him to stroll in the garden among flowers she herself had planted, nursed and reared into loveliness. At the name of the visitor a tremor passed over the wasted frame of the old man, but he looked beseechingly at his companion and said:

Blind with rage, he dashed furiously up the bayou road and across the swamp to Dede's cabaret to inform waiting Quillebert of his rebuff.

Estelle flew to her priedieu and fell upon her knees. In anguish she prayed for strength to bear her through the approaching ordeal. Rising, she stood a moment gazing into the sky of cloudless blue and murmured softly:

"Rest, my Horace. My love shall wake only with you. Remember the vow I made when they told me you were dead. That vow shall not be broken."

CHAPTER XVIII.

DURESS.

DESPITE the protest and entreaty of Estelle the feeble invalid responded to the summons of Quillebert to a meeting at the old cabaret. He dared not disobey, though the journey was made with pain of body and mental misgiving. He had vaguely connected Evariste's last visit to his house with impending catastrophe, for Estelle had since been more depressed, more reticent and even more tenderly solicitous in her watchfulness over him, but he feared to question and was left in ignorance of what had occurred. At the cabaret he was ushered by Dede into the familiar rear room, where Quillebert and Evariste awaited him at the baize covered table. Evariste was smoking a fragrant Cuban cigar. One glass and a bottle were before Quillebert, who was doggedly drunk. Latiolais was received with ominous coldness. No glass was offered him. He lacked courage to ask for one.

"Leonidas, settling day has come," said Quillebert, with brutal abruptness, terminating an embarrassing silence.

"What? How, Constant?" Latiolais asked, shaking as if with an ague.

"What? Your indebtedness to me. How? In money. Pay me the money."

"Now?"

"Yes, now. It is past due. You have had more time than I ever asked of a creditor."

"But the notice is so short, Constant."

"So is my time, Leonidas."

"My debt is large."

"I know that, to my sorrow."

"I have not the money."

"Get it."

"Within what time?"

"Thirty days."

"Impossible."

"Then the property must answer."

"Oh, Constant, my friend, spare me!" groaned the unhappy man.

"Leonidas, my very dear friend, I have not time. My other dear friends, Americans and Christians, are pressing upon me inducements to return to France which really I cannot resist. We are getting old, you and I. Just think of it, I am older than you! I may not live to come back to this paradise, and therefore my affairs here must be closed up just as if I meant not to come back. I really have not the time to spare you, Leonidas." Quillebert appeared to enjoy the pains of his victim as much as he did the rum, which he quaffed at shortening intervals, his insolence increasing with each potation.

"I never was more serious in my life, and nothing but death can move me. At present, Leonidas, I enjoy perfect health."

"My God! My God! My poor Estelle must suffer want and hide her head in shame for my disgrace. And there is no escape, no hope!" The old man's head was lowered, and his shaking frame rocked to and fro.

"There is hope, there is escape," in emphatic tone said Evariste, whose silent presence had been forgotten by Latiolais in his distress.

"Where? By what means?" cried the latter, looking up with wonder and wisdom in his haggard face.

"Estelle can save you," Evariste replied.

"Estelle? My Estelle? Explain, my dear young friend."

"Be calm, monsieur, and I will make my meaning plain to you." Evariste exemplified his advice, being as unperturbed in manner and free from excitement in speech as if he were discussing persons and affairs remote from his own interest. "In the course of business with Quillebert I have become possessed of a portion of your obligations—namely, some of your notes, your granddaughter's procuration to you to contract debts for the maintenance of her property and authorization to cancel her mortgage against you so as to give first rank to the security I hold. M. Quillebert has determined to leave this country very soon, and I appreciate the necessity for haste. There must be mutual accountings between him and me to adjust finally our joint ventures during the past four years, some of which have been quite heavy. As your notes and their securities held by us two are in the main concurrent, if he forecloses I shall be compelled to do likewise. I understand, of course, you have not the means of payment. The sale or surrender of your property and your granddaughter's must follow pressure. Now, I will purchase all your obligations which M. Quillebert has and deliver them, together with those which are in my hands, to you, making you a debtless, solvent man and reinstating your granddaughter's estate on one condition."

"What is a conjunction?" asked the teacher.

"That which joins together," was the prompt reply.

"Give an illustration," said the teacher.

MRS. HORTON RECOVERS.

Popular Editor Ladies' Secret Society Journal to Continue Her Work.

Voices Sentiments of Many Others in Her Praise of Blood Wine.

Providence, R. I.—Mrs. A. B. Horton, Editor of the "Ladies' Secret Society Journal," who has been in ill health for some time, and obliged to discontinue all her work on this excellent little paper, has completely recovered her former health and will resume her work at once. Mrs. Horton is one of the East's brainy writers. Her contributions have won her many friends and admirers in the literary field, all of whom will be glad to learn of her recovery. Speaking of her illness she says: "You know my work is very trying on one's nerves, and unless one is situated so as to ward off approaching sickness, one is almost sure to have some sort of nervous trouble, sooner or later. Nearly every writer does. I stood it as long as I could, and was about to give up and take a rest when I had a collapse, and was taken very ill. I had the best medical advice, but did not seem to gain much. In fact, I appeared to go from bad to worse. I was troubled terribly with insomnia, had no appetite, and couldn't think—in fact, I was just about a total wreck. I took various medicines for nearly a year, and made up my mind that nothing would help me, when one day my physician said he wanted me to try "Blood Wine," and explained to me all about it. I obeyed him, but didn't seem to improve at first. I took nearly a bottle, when all at once I began to feel better. I continued its use, and to-day I am a well woman. You see for yourself that I am the picture of health and I will solemnly swear that "Blood Wine" made me what I am. Several members of the family have used it and my husband, who has been on the verge of nervous prostration, is now fully recovered. We cannot speak too highly of this grand preparation, and I should be glad to correspond with anyone who would like to know more about it. I hope some one will be benefited by my testimonial.

Don't wait, thinking that perhaps you will get well without medical assistance. You can kill one germ easier than you can kill a million. The secret of getting good health and keeping it is in being on your guard. It isn't necessary to do any costly experimenting with "Blood Wine" neither do you have to send away for it, but you can go to your druggist and sample it free of charge. If you don't say that it possesses the snap and characteristics of a thing that would do the work, don't buy it. The makers of "Blood Wine" make no false statements regarding its curative properties; their announcements are not extravagantly phrased, neither do they want anyone to buy their remedy who has the least doubt that it will not do all they claim for it. "Blood Wine" will make new blood. It cleanses, filters, purifies and enriches the blood. It makes new tissues in the lungs. It builds fresh cells in the kidneys. It constructs a new lining in the stomach. It weaves healthy membranes in the heart and other delicate organs of the body, and it contains no wine or opiates. Bear in mind it does all that you can reasonably expect it to do. See Will Reed and Hodson's drug stores about it.

ARGUMENTS BEGUN.

Hanna Opted For the Government In the Schley Court of Inquiry.

ADMIRAL WAS ON THE STAND.

Principally, He Cleared Up Points in His Testimony and Made Corrections—The Court Refused to Admit New Testimony.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Schley court of inquiry reached the argument stage at the beginning of the afternoon session Monday. The morning sitting was devoted to listening to Admiral Schley and Captain Sigsbee, in making corrections of their testimony, which had been given previously, and the introduction by Judge Advocate Lemly of numerous documents bearing upon different phases of the inquiry. Admiral Schley did not make any material additions to his previous statements, but devoted himself largely to the clearing up of ambiguous points in his evidence. An effort was made to introduce two new witnesses, who were expected to give testimony in Admiral Schley's behalf concerning the controversy as to what information Captain Sigsbee communicated to Admiral Schley when he arrived off Santiago in May, 1898. One of the witnesses was Frank B. Richards and the other George Lynch, both of New York, and both newspaper correspondents who were on duty in Cuba and in Cuban waters during the war with Spain. Mr. Lynch was on the press boat Somers N. Smith and Mr. Richards on the Premier. They were to have testified concerning the meeting of those vessels with the St. Paul, of which Captain Sigsbee was in command. The court, however, decided not to hear them.

The opening speech of the argument in the case was made in behalf of the government by Mr. E. P. Hanna, assistant to the judge advocate. He began his presentation of the case a few minutes after the court convened at 2 o'clock, and when the court adjourned two hours later he had not covered more than half of the ground involved in the controversy.

AGAINST THE BIDDLES.
Pennsylvania Supreme Court Sustained Decision.

Pittsburg, Nov. 5.—The supreme court handed down a decision sustaining the lower court in the case of Edward and John Biddle, who were convicted of murder of the first degree for the killing of Thomas Kahney, the Mt. Washington grocer, last April. The murder occurred while the Biddles and Walter Dorman were attempting to rob the Kahney residence. Walter Dorman, who was indicted with the two Biddles, pleaded guilty to the charge of murder and testified against his confederates.

WOMAN BURNED HERSELF.

Horrible Attempt at Suicide, in St. Paul, Minn.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—Mrs. William Mayer made an attempt to end her life in a terrible manner. She piled newspapers into the bath tub at her home, saturated them with kerosene and lighted them. Then bending over the burning papers, she remained in that position until the entire upper portion of her body was burned in a horrible manner. The smoke attracted attention and she was found lying on the floor unconscious. She was taken to the city hospital, where she regained consciousness and said she tried to kill herself because she was a burden to her family.

MRS. FOSS PRESIDENT.

Officers Elected by Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Monday's session of the thirty-second annual meeting of the general executive committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary society old directors were elected as follows: Mrs. Cyrus D. Foss, Philadelphia, president; Mrs. J. O. Gracey, Rochester, secretary; Mrs. W. B. Skidmore, New York, treasurer. Official correspondence from the missionaries in foreign fields was read and all of the letters contained encouraging reports.

The afternoon session was devoted principally to "a home itinerary with a missionary."

Wu Not Notified.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Minister Wu has as yet no notice from his government of its reported purpose to recall him to China. He was at the state department, but found the officials there without confirmation of the report.

Says She Will Drown.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Ivy Wilson attempted suicide by drinking laudanum. Physicians rescued her by hard work. She said she would drown herself and was being closely watched.

WHY PROFESSORS' HEADS GO INTO THE BASKET

HERE is probably no other great question of national importance about which so little is known and regarding which so little is taught as the one of taxation. The great colleges of the country to which the people look for the spread of such information are silent as a rule upon this great question. AND WHY? BECAUSE THE PROFESSORS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES, WHICH ARE MAINLY SUPPORTED BY THE ENDOWMENTS OF WEALTHY CAPITALISTS, STAND IN FEAR OF LOSING THEIR POSITIONS IF THEY TEACH THE TRUTH ABOUT THIS QUESTION and even if they devote much attention to it.

I must say that I do not blame them for declining to cut their own throats, but I have known some college professors who have dared to go against the orders of their rich patrons by teaching and talking the truth about economic questions when the truth was opposed to the interests of their employers.

DRESS OF THE DAY

OUTING COSTUMES AND TRAVELING GEAR OF THE SMART SET.

New Gowns For Croquet and Tennis. Traveling Outfit, including the Dashing Long Coat—Roman Sandals Revived For Children.

Illustrations speak louder than words, but both are desirable when fashion is the theme. Let us then at once thus doubly present some interesting items of the mode. A figure of the first sketch is devoted to the tennis player—a costume made in mauve linen with the strappings outlined with black stitching. It bears a little bolero of somewhat new shape, which can be dispensed with at will, or appear above a blouse, which is of white muslin with an embroidered black spot upon it, belted round the waist with black glaze.

The croquet player, who looks on victory bent, is in ecru linen trimmed with

ecru lace and bands of ecru taffeta, the little sack coat is entirely made of lace, while the taffeta outlines the collar, the oversleeves and the lace vest.

Second as to sketches are traveling outfits, such as early autumn will bring into greater prominence. There is on the left a neat and simple marine blue mohair gown worn with a tan suede belt, turndown muslin collar and red and blue plaid cravat.

The other figure exploits one of the long cloaks which, in the very lightest weight fabrics, have been a most dashing and at the same time serviceable summer style. This cloak is heavier, of pastel gray cloth, piped with black taffeta and stitched and finished with large pierced bone buttons.

A traveling coat is in fact a very important possession, and extremely swell will be one of black cloth lined with white glaze. Collars, cuffs and facing are of white cloth strapped with black glaze. In shape it is a man's loose racing coat, seeming to hang in folds without plaits, in sack style, from neck to hem, and yet innocent of a superfluous inch of fullness, an admirable garment.

Again we hear that the bolero has had its day, and its sun has certainly set with at least one swell Paris gown builder. In its place reigns a jaunty jacket, short at the back, with springing basque coming some three inches below the waist line behind, sloping down on either side in front into deep points, which are really continuations of the collar and revers. This new coat gives the long, straight fronted aspect of the figure which is the fashionable desideratum at the present moment.

offspring of the Four Hundred are exploiting it this season at exclusive resorts. Another summer should see such a sensible notion in full swing for all the little folk everywhere. The

EARLY AUTUMN TRAVELING OUTFITS. A scandal is next thing to going barefoot and that is usually commended by the hygienists and is the basis of at least one celebrated "cure."

These forerunners of a probable style are of tan and white buckskin and are constructed with three straps, one passing between the big and second toe to the ankle, a cross strap and an ankle band. The rising generation may walk more gracefully and be freer by one-half (the scandal season being confined to summer) from corns and bunions than their elders of the present day.

To Poach Eggs in a Ball.

To poach eggs in a ball is a knack not acquired by all cooks. The way of it is this: The water is heated to boiling and then rapidly stirred until a small whirlpool is produced, in the hollow part of which maelstrom the egg is cleverly dropped. The motion of the water crystallizes the white instantly into a circular covering for the unbroken yolk.

Searching For a Soul.

A resident property owner in the Rue Malte-Brun had just died. On the evening of his death, when darkness had fallen, his relations, five or six in number, each provided with a lantern, slowly made the circuit of the garden, as if they were searching for something in the walks. When they came to a large heap of stones, they turned each one of them over and then re-entered the house.

This curious procession is an old Norman custom. The dead person was a native of the country near Gisors. Before interring the dead it is necessary, according to the tradition, to investigate and see that the soul of the deceased is not concealed in a corner of his property or under some rubbish.

Jumped on a Ten-Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an anti-septic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

Four Ministers

Tell of Magical Results Brought About in Burning, Itching, Bleeding Skin Troubles by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. Chase's Ointment draws more praise from ministers, physicians and lawyers than any other medicine in the world. It is endorsed by every profession.

Extracts from their Letters.

Rev. W. N. Edwards, Baptist minister, 109 Trinity Place, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "For over fifteen years the itching piles have been a source of constant annoyance to me, and frequently, too, the suffering has become intense. At times there was bleeding and the itching and burning was beyond endurance. The results I have derived from Dr. Chase's Ointment have been magical and the benefits lasting. I feel it a duty to fellow sufferers to recommend it."

Rev. J. N. Van Natter, Methodist minister, Albion, Wis., writes: "My wife was terribly afflicted with protruding piles and contemplated a surgical operation when her notice was drawn to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a cure."

"I then used it for an unsightly and troublesome skin affection, which had baffled medical skill for twenty-five years. Dr. Chase's Ointment thoroughly cured it. For piles and skin disease it is worth its weight in gold."

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:

"For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. I used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am entirely cured. The itching is all gone. I have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me."

Rev. Chas. Fish, Methodist minister, 199 Dunn Avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes: "Ten years ago eczema began on my ear and spread over my head and hands. During that time I was a great sufferer. I tried many remedies, and some of the best physicians—specialists on skin diseases—treated me. The first box of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave much relief and five boxes completely cured me. I think my cure a marvel, and gladly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Just as good for every form of skin trouble, no matter how long standing. Send a box, all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. HORTON RECOVERS.

Popular Editor Ladies' Secret Society Journal to Continue Her Work.

Voices Sentiments of Many Others in Her Praise of Blood Wine.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5.—Mrs. A. B. Horton, Editor of the "Ladies' Secret Society Journal," who has been in ill health for some time, and obliged to discontinue all her work on this excellent little paper, has completely recovered her former health, and will resume her work at once. Mrs. Horton is one of the East's brainy writers. Her contributions have won her many friends and admirers in the literary field, all of whom will be glad to learn of her recovery. Speaking of her illness she says: "You know my work is very trying on one's nerves, and unless one is situated so as to ward off approaching sickness, one is almost sure to have some sort of nervous trouble, sooner or later. Nearly every writer does. I stood it as long as I could, and was about to give up and take a rest when I had a collapse, and was taken very ill. I had the best medical advice, but did not seem to gain much. In fact, I appeared to go from bad to worse. I was troubled terribly with insomnia, had no appetite, and couldn't think—in fact, I was just about a total wreck. I took various medicines for nearly a year, and made up my mind that nothing would help me, when one day my physician said he wanted me to try "Blood Wine," and explained to me all about it. I obeyed him, but didn't seem to improve at first. I took nearly a bottle, when all at once I began to feel better. I continued its use, and to-day I am a well woman. You see for yourself that I am the picture of health, and I solemnly swear that "Blood Wine" made me what I am. Several members of the family have used it, and my husband, who has been on the verge of nervous prostration, is now fully recovered. We cannot speak too highly of this grand preparation, and I should be glad to correspond with anyone who would like to know more about it. I hope some one will be benefited by my testimony.

Don't wait, thinking that perhaps you will get well without medical assistance. You can kill one germ easier than you can kill a million. The secret of getting good health and keeping it is in being on your guard. It isn't necessary to do any costly experimenting with "Blood Wine" neither do you have to send away for it, but you can go to your druggist and sample it free of charge. If you don't say that it possesses the snap and characteristics of a thing that would do the work, don't buy it. The makers of "Blood Wine" make no false statements regarding its curative properties; their announcements are not extravagantly phrased, neither do they want anyone to buy their remedy who has the least doubt that it will not do all they claim for it. "Blood Wine" will make new blood. It cleanses, filters, purifies and enriches the blood. It makes new tissues in the lungs. It builds fresh cells in the kidneys. It constructs a new lining in the stomach. It waves healthy membranes in the heart and other delicate organs of the body, and it contains the wine or opiates. Bear in mind it does all that you can reasonably expect it to do. See Will Reed and Hodson's drug stores about it.

ARGUMENTS BEGUN.

Hanna Opened For the Government In the Schley Court of Inquiry.

ADMIRAL WAS ON THE STAND.

Principally, He Cleared Up Points in His Testimony and Made Corrections—The Court Refused to Admit New Testimony.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Schley court of inquiry reached the argument stage at the beginning of the afternoon session Monday. The morning sitting was devoted to listening to Admiral Schley and Captain Sigsbee, in making corrections of their testimony, which had been given previously, and the introduction by Judge Advocate Lemly of numerous documents bearing upon different phases of the inquiry. Admiral Schley did not make any material additions to his previous statements, but devoted himself largely to the clearing up of ambiguous points in his evidence. An effort was made to introduce two new witnesses, who were expected to give testimony in Admiral Schley's behalf concerning the controversy as to what information Captain Sigsbee communicated to Admiral Schley when he arrived off Santiago in May, 1898. One of the witnesses was Frank B. Richards and the other George Lynch, both of New York, and both newspaper correspondents who were on duty in Cuba and in Cuban waters during the war with Spain. Mr. Lynch was on the press boat Somers N. Smith and Mr. Richards on the Premier. They were to have testified concerning the meeting of those vessels with the St. Paul, of which Captain Sigsbee was in command. The court, however, decided not to hear them.

The opening speech of the argument in the case was made in behalf of the government by Mr. E. P. Hanna, assistant to the judge advocate. He began his presentation of the case a few minutes after the court convened at 2 o'clock, and when the court adjourned two hours later he had not covered more than half of the ground involved in the controversy.

AGAINST THE BIDDLES.

Pennsylvania Supreme Court Sustained Decision.

Pittsburg, Nov. 5.—The supreme court handed down a decision sustaining the lower court in the case of Edward and John Biddle, who were convicted of murder of the first degree for the killing of Thomas Kahney, the Mt. Washington grocer, last April. The murder occurred while the Biddles and Walter Dorman were attempting to rob the Kahney residence. Walter Dorman, who was indicted with the two Biddles, pleaded guilty to the charge of murder and testified against his confederates.

While the appeal of the case to the supreme court was pending Governor W. A. Stone issued the death warrant and fixed the date for the execution. He said that he had been given no official notice that the appeal had been taken. The death warrant was recalled when it was found that the case was before the supreme court.

This has raised a question as to whether the governor can legally fix another date for the execution. There may be some litigation over this point, but the general opinion is that there will be no difficulty in the way of setting another day for the hanging.

The opinions in both cases were written by Justice Dean.

WOMAN BURNED HERSELF.

Horrible Attempt at Suicide, in St. Paul, Minn.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—Mrs. William Mayer made an attempt to end her life in a terrible manner. She piled newspapers into the bath tub at her home, saturated them with kerosene and lighted them. Then bending over the burning papers, she remained in that position until the entire upper portion of her body was burned in a horrible manner. The smoke attracted attention and she was found lying on the floor unconscious. She was taken to the city hospital, where she regained consciousness and said she tried to kill herself because she was a burden to her family.

This was the second attempt the woman has made to end her life within three days previous. It is believed she cannot recover.

MRS. FOSS PRESIDENT.

Officers Elected by Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Monday's session of the thirty-second annual meeting of the general executive committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary society old directors were elected as follows: Mrs. Cyrus D. Foss, Philadelphia, president; Mrs. J. O. Gracey, Rochester, secretary; Mrs. W. B. Skidmore, New York, treasurer. Official correspondence from the missionaries in foreign fields was read and all of the letters contained encouraging reports.

Wu Not Notified.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Minister Wu has as yet no notice from his government of its reported purpose to recall him to China. He was at the state department, but found the officials there without confirmation of the report.

Says She Will Drown.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Ivy Wilson attempted suicide by drinking laudanum. Physicians rescued her by hard work. She said she would drown herself and was being closely watched.

WHY PROFESSORS' HEADS GO INTO THE BASKET

By TOM L. JOHNSON, Mayor of Cleveland

HERE is probably no other great question of national importance about which so little is known and regarding which so little is taught as the one of taxation. The great colleges of the country to which the people look for the spread of such information are silent as a rule upon this great question. AND WHY? BECAUSE THE PROFESSORS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES, WHICH ARE MAINLY SUPPORTED BY THE ENDOWMENTS OF WEALTHY CAPITALISTS, STAND IN FEAR OF LOSING THEIR POSITIONS IF THEY TEACH THE TRUTH ABOUT THIS QUESTION and even if they devote much attention to it.

I must say that I do not blame them for declining to cut their own throats, but I have known some college professors who have dared to go against the orders of their rich patrons by teaching and talking the truth about economic questions when the truth was opposed to the interests of their employers.

DRESS OF THE DAY

New Gowns For Croquet and Tennis. Traveling Outfit, Including the Dashing Long Coat—Roman Sandals Revived For Children.

Illustrations speak louder than words, but both are desirable when fashion is the theme. Let us then at once thus doubly present some interesting items of the mode. A figure of the first sketch is devoted to the tennis player—a costume made in mauve linen with the strappings outlined with black stitching. It bears a little bolero of somewhat new shape, which can be dispensed with at will, or appear above a blouse, which is of white muslin with an embroidered black spot upon it, belted round the waist with black lace.

The croquet player, who looks on victory bent, is in ecru linen trimmed with

ecru lace and bands of ecru taffeta, the little sack coat is entirely made of lace, while the taffeta outlines the collar, the oversleeves and the lace vest.

Second as to sketches are traveling outfits, such as early autumn will bring into greater prominence. There is on the left a neat and simple marine blue mohair gown worn with a tan suede belt, turndown muslin collar and red and blue plaid cravat.

The other figure exploits one of the long cloaks which, in the very lightest and at the same time serviceable summer style. This cloak is heavier, of pastel gray cloth, piped with black taffeta and stitched and finished with large pierced bone buttons.

A traveling coat is in fact a very important possession, and extremely well will be one of black cloth lined with white glaze. Collars, cuffs and facing are of white cloth strapped with black glaze. In shape it is a man's loose racing coat, seeming to hang in folds without plaits, in sack style, from neck to hem, and yet innocent of a superfluous inch of fullness, an admirable garment.

Again we hear that the bolero has had its day, and its sun has certainly set with at least one swell Paris gown builder. In its place reigns a jaunty jacket, short at the back, with springing basque coming some three inches below the waist line behind, sloping down on either side in front into deep points, which are really continuations of the collar and revers. This new coat gives the long, straight fronted aspect of the figure which is the fashionable desideratum at the present moment.

The Roman sandal has been revived as a very smart fad for children. The offspring of the Four Hundred are exploiting it this season at exclusive resorts. Another summer should see such a sensible notion in full swing for all the little folk everywhere. The sandal is next thing to going barefoot and that is usually commended by the hygienists and is the basis of at least one celebrated "cure."

These forerunners of a probable style are of tan and white buckskin and are constructed with three straps, one passing between the big and second toe to the ankle, a cross strap and an ankle band. The rising generation may walk more gracefully and be freer by one-half (the sandal season being confined to summer) from corsets and buns than their elders of the present day.

To Poach Eggs in a Ball.

To poach eggs in a ball is a knack not acquired by all cooks. The way of it is this: The water is heated to boiling and then rapidly stirred until a small whirlpool is produced, in the hollow part of which maelstrom the egg is cleverly dropped. The motion of the water crystallizes the white instantly into a circular covering for the unbroken gold.

Searching For a Soul.

Before the astonished eyes of a number of Parisians a singular funeral ceremony took place the other day.

A resident property owner in the Rue Malte-Brun had just died. On the evening of his death, when darkness had fallen, his relations, five or six in number, each provided with a lantern, slowly made the circuit of the garden, as if they were searching for something in the walks. When they came to a large heap of stones, they turned each one of them over and then re-entered the house.

This curious procession is an old Norman custom. The dead person was a native of the country near Glisors. Before interring the dead it is necessary, according to the tradition, to investigate and see that the soul of the deceased is not concealed in a corner of his property or under some rubbish.

Jumped on a Ten-Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

Four Ministers

Tell of Magical Results Brought About in Burning, Itching, Bleeding Skin Troubles by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. Chase's Ointment draws more praise from ministers, physicians and lawyers than any other medicine in the world. It is endorsed by every profession.

Extracts from their Letters.

Rev. W. N. Edwards, Baptist minister, 100 Trinity Place, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "For over fifteen years the itching piles have been a source of constant annoyance to me, and frequently, too, the suffering has become intense. At times there was bleeding and the itching and burning was beyond endurance. The results I have derived from Dr. Chase's Ointment have been magical and the benefits lasting. I feel it a duty to fellow sufferers to recommend it."

Rev. J. N. Van Natter, Methodist minister, Albion, Wis., writes: "My wife was terribly afflicted with protruding piles and contemplated a surgical operation when her notice was drawn to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a cure."

"I then used it for an unsightly and troublesome skin affection, which had baffled medical skill for twenty-five years. Dr. Chase's Ointment thoroughly cured it. For piles and skin disease it is worth its weight in gold."

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:

"For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. I used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am entirely cured. The itching is all gone. I have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me."

Rev. Chas. Fish, Methodist minister, 295 Dunn Avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes: "Ten years ago eczema began on my ears and spread over my head and hands. During that time I was a great sufferer. I tried many remedies, and some of the best physicians—specialists on skin diseases—treated me. The first box of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave much relief and five boxes completely cured me. I think my cure a marvel, and gladly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Just as good for every form of skin trouble, no matter how long standing. It costs a box, all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

SHOWERS OF MANNA

JUST WHY AND HOW SUCH PHENOMENA ARE POSSIBLE.

This Food of the People of Israel in the Wilderness Is an Edible Lichen That is Still Found in Parts of Asia and Africa.

"It is manna!" exclaimed the people of Israel as they gathered the food which seemed so miraculously to appear at their very feet in answer to their cry for sustenance, but though they ate and were satisfied, we are told they "wist not what it was."

And during the ages that have passed since its first appearance on that memorable dewy morning in the wilderness of sin men have declared again and again that they "wist not what it was" that thus fed the Israelites in their need, though numberless conjectures have been made and discussions held on the matter.

The chief opinion which had sway for a long time was that manna was the sap of the tamarisk; but now authorities, seeing in the light of widening scientific knowledge, declare that manna was without doubt a certain lichen (Lecanora esculenta).

This is borne out by the fact that well authenticated rains of manna, absolutely believed by the inhabitants to be showers from heaven, have been reported at least six times during the past century by reliable travelers in the east, and the descriptions of the deposit given in precise present day language leave no doubt upon the point.

If a piece of manna be examined under the microscope, its peculiar compound structure can be clearly seen. There is a delicate network of interlacing fungal threads glistening in the light, while inclosed in their meshes are a number of round, bright green cells, each a tiny algal plant. Thus fungus and alga live together in most intimate connection.

It may be asked how fresh manna lichens arise, seeing that it is difficult to imagine a frequent coincident meeting of a particular fungus and a particular green plant. But granted the meeting has once taken place, the rapid reproduction is easy to understand.

At certain times in the year a yellowish dust appears in little green cups growing on the surface of the plant, and each of the grains of dust is a minute bundle containing a few of the white filaments and a few of the green cells wrapped up together, so that wherever this dust may fall each grain can become a new manna lichen.

There is, moreover, a second method of reproduction in which the fungus alone takes part and sends out tiny offspring to take their chance in the wide world of finding a suitable host, as their parent has done, but the details are complicated and at present involved in some obscurity.

Thus, then, Lecanora esculenta—manna—is in its very nature one of the most remarkable phenomena in the vegetable world. It is found over great tracts of southwest Asia, near Constantinople, in the Crimea, the deserts of Arabia, in the Sahara and the deserts of Algeria.

It is easy to pass it by unnoticed, for it is grayish yellow in color and grows on gray limestone rocks and fragments of rock in the form of a wrinkled crust which seems to the casual observer part of the very rock itself, and needs care to distinguish it.

Cut through, it is white like corn within, dry and powdery. It is, moreover, extremely light in weight. It is obvious that there is not much nourishment to be obtained from the bare face of the limestone rock, hence all the sustenance of the two plants must be obtained from the atmosphere and the rain by the little green plant, which must thus work doubly hard to be able to pass on sufficient food for its partner's living in addition to providing its own.

By degrees, as it grows older, it becomes loosened or even detached from the rocks, and then, when the sudden whirlwinds and violent storms which affect many of these regions blow, the featherweight pieces of lichen crust are torn up and blown into the air at the mercy of the wind and carried, it may be, for immense distances.

The rains, too, that descend with such sudden vehemence sweep it away into water channels, where it is borne along on the stream and deposited in hollows and left there in heaps when the water subsides.

At times, too, a waterspout will gather it up, carry it along and ultimately deposit it in a place where hitherto it had been practically unknown.—Sunday Magazine.

Impertinent.

It is said that Sarah, duchess of Marlborough, one day remarked to her grandson, Jack Spencer: "Jack, you must marry, and I will give you a list of the ladies you may propose to."

"Very well, grannie," he said, and he proposed to the first on the list. When he came back with his wife from their wedding tour, they went to pay their respects to the old lady.

"Well, now," she said, "I am the root, and you are only the branches, and therefore you must always pay me a great deal of deference."

"That is all very well," said Jack impudently, "but I think the branches would flourish a great deal better if the root was under ground."

The Primary Planets.

The primary planets are those which are the centers of secondary systems, consisting of small globes revolving round them in the same manner as they revolve round the sun. These are called secondary planets, satellites or moons. The primary planets which are thus attended carry the satellites or secondary planets with them in their orbits round the sun.

FIRED INTO A CROWD.

Two Dead; Others Wounded—Negro Got Angry at a Political Speech.

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 5.—Meagre details were received here Sunday from the little town of Ferrum, Va., about 30 miles from Roanoke, of a tragedy at that place Saturday night. A negro named William Hale took exceptions to some remarks made by a white man at a political meeting, and leaving the hall went to his home, where he procured a double-barrelled shotgun, loaded with buckshot, returned to the place where the speaking was being held, and fired two barrels into the crowd. A white man named Robinson, who was the village blacksmith, was killed instantly, and John Thomas, colored, received wounds from which he died shortly afterward. Two other men, both white, but names thus far not learned, were seriously and probably fatally wounded.

Hale made his escape and thus far has not been captured, though the country was being scoured for miles around by indignant citizens. Bloodhounds were sent to the scene Sunday.

SITUATION IN GUATEMALA.

Large Measure of Prosperity, Declared Munoz.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Dr. Jorge Munoz, who came to Washington recently as the special representative of Guatemala, personally to express to President Roosevelt the sympathy and condolences of his government on the death of the late President McKinley, says that Guatemala is enjoying a large measure of prosperity under the administration of President Estrada Cabrera, who has succeeded in keeping his country on a peace footing with its neighbors of Central America. Guatemala, he says, has suffered, as have the other Spanish-American countries, from financial difficulties due to the depreciation of silver and also from the low price of coffee, which is one of the principal products of the country, but recently there has been a decided improvement in business. Dr. Munoz predicts that normal conditions will be restored within a short time. Moreover, the natural resources of the country are being developed and much progress is looked for in the near future. Among the things from which much is expected is a construction of a railway to connect Guatemala City with the Atlantic ocean. This road has been projected, and upon completion will give the country expeditious communication to the eastward.

THE MCKINLEY MEMORIAL.

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—It was planned at the governor's office that Indiana's contribution to the McKinley memorial fund should be made within the next 90 days. Last week the governor appointed a committee, giving each congressional district representation. The first meeting was held yesterday afternoon. Senator Fairbanks, W. R. McKeen, of Terre Haute; Congressman Miers, of Bloomington, and many others were present.

The governor, who was made permanent chairman of the commission, presided at the meeting. Senator Fairbanks will prepare an address that will be issued immediately to the people of the state asking for contributions. It will be similar to the address sent out recently by the national commission.

Wright Acting as Governor.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Secretary Root received a cable message from Governor Taft, saying that on account of the recent operation he had undergone he would be incapacitated for duty for about three weeks. He said the operation had been successful and that his convalescence was progressing satisfactorily. During his disability Judge Wright, who has been appointed vice governor, will administer the civil affairs of the Philippine government.

The News Review, as usual, will bulletin election returns. Arrangements have been made for complete reports, local and general.

At certain times in the year a yellowish dust appears in little green cups growing on the surface of the plant, and each of the grains of dust is a minute bundle containing a few of the white filaments and a few of the green cells wrapped up together, so that wherever this dust may fall each grain can become a new manna lichen.

There is, moreover, a second method of reproduction in which the fungus alone takes part and sends out tiny offspring to take their chance in the wide world of finding a suitable host, as their parent has done, but the details are complicated and at present involved in some obscurity.

Thus, then, Lecanora esculenta—manna—is in its very nature one of the most remarkable phenomena in the vegetable world. It is found over great tracts of southwest Asia, near Constantinople, in the Crimea, the deserts of Arabia, in the Sahara and the deserts of Algeria.

It is easy to pass it by unnoticed, for it is grayish yellow in color and grows on gray limestone rocks and fragments of rock in the form of a wrinkled crust which seems to the casual observer part of the very rock itself, and needs care to distinguish it.

Cut through, it is white like corn within, dry and powdery. It is, moreover, extremely light in weight. It is obvious that there is not much nourishment to be obtained from the bare face of the limestone rock, hence all the sustenance of the two plants must be obtained from the atmosphere and the rain by the little green plant, which must thus work doubly hard to be able to pass on sufficient food for its partner's living in addition to providing its own.

By degrees, as it grows older, it becomes loosened or even detached from the rocks, and then, when the sudden whirlwinds and violent storms which affect many of these regions blow, the featherweight pieces of lichen crust are torn up and blown into the air at the mercy of the wind and carried, it may be, for immense distances.

The rains, too, that descend with such sudden vehemence sweep it away into water channels, where it is borne along on the stream and deposited in hollows and left there in heaps when the water subsides.

At times, too, a waterspout will gather it up, carry it along and ultimately deposit it in a place where hitherto it had been practically unknown.—Sunday Magazine.

Impertinent.

It is said that Sarah, duchess of Marlborough, one day remarked to her grandson, Jack Spencer: "Jack, you must marry, and I will give you a list of the ladies you may propose to."

"That is all very well," said Jack impertinently, "but I think the branches would flourish a great deal better if the root was under ground."

The Primary Planets.

The primary planets are those which are the centers of secondary systems, consisting of small globes revolving round them in the same manner as they revolve round the sun. These are called secondary planets, satellites or moons. The primary planets which are thus attended carry the satellites or secondary planets with them in their orbits round the sun.

FIRED INTO A CROWD.

Two Dead; Others Wounded—Negro Got Angry at a Political Speech.

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 5.—Meagre details were received here Sunday from the little town of Ferrum, Va., about 30 miles from Roanoke, of a tragedy at that place Saturday night. A negro named William Hale took exceptions to some remarks made by a white man at a political meeting, and leaving the hall went to his home, where he procured a double-barrelled shotgun, loaded with buckshot, returned to the place where the speaking was being held, and fired two barrels into the crowd. A white man named Robinett, who was the village blacksmith, was killed instantly, and John Thomas, colored, received wounds from which he died shortly afterward. Two other men, both white, but names thus far not learned, were seriously and probably fatally wounded.

Hale made his escape and thus far has not been captured, though the country was being scoured for miles around by indignant citizens. Bloodhounds were sent to the scene Sunday.

SITUATION IN GUATEMALA.

Large Measure of Prosperity, Declared Munoz.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Dr. Jorge Munoz, who came to Washington recently as the special representative of Guatemala, personally to express to President Roosevelt the sympathy and condolences of his government on the death of the late President McKinley, says that Guatemala is enjoying a large measure of prosperity under the administration of President Estrada Cabrera, who has succeeded in keeping his country on a peace footing with its neighbors of Central America. Guatemala, he says, has suffered, as have the other Spanish-American countries, from financial difficulties due to the depreciation of silver and also from the low price of coffee, which is one of the principal products of the country, but recently there has been a decided improvement in business. Dr. Munoz predicts that normal conditions will be restored within a short time. Moreover, the natural resources of the country are being developed and much progress is looked for in the near future. Among the things from which much is expected is a construction of a railway to connect Guatemala City with the Atlantic ocean. This road has been projected, and upon completion will give the country expeditious communication to the eastward.

INDIANA PLANNED FOR

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—It was planned at the governor's office that Indiana's contribution to the McKinley memorial fund should be made within the next 90 days. Last week the governor appointed a committee, giving each congressional district representation. The first meeting was held yesterday afternoon. Senator Fairbanks, W. R. McKee, of Terre Haute; Congressman Miers, of Bloomington, and many others were present. The governor, who was made permanent chairman of the commission, presided at the meeting. Senator Fairbanks will prepare an address that will be issued immediately to the people of the state asking for contributions. It will be similar to the address sent out recently by the national commission.

Wright Acting as Governor.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Secretary Root received a cable message from Governor Taft, saying that on account of the recent operation he had undergone he would be incapacitated for duty for about three weeks. He said the operation had been successful and that his convalescence was progressing satisfactorily. During his disability Judge Wright, who has been appointed vice governor, will administer the civil affairs of the Philippine government.

The News Review, as usual, will bulletin election returns. Arrangements have been made for complete reports, local and general.
